PACIFIC WAR COUNCIL SET UP

Knox Asks More Latin-American Help

ALL CONTINENT IN PERIL, SAYS CHIEF OF NAVY

Stresses Need of Co-operation By Other Nations to Keep Aggressors at Bay.

21 NATIONS AT PARLEY

Conference to Map Plans For Bolstering Defenses of Entire Hemisphere.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Warning that the entire American continent is "in imminent peril from non-American aggression," Secretary of the Navy Knox today appealed to the nations of Latin America for "loyal cooperation and sacrifice" in defending this hemisphere.

Addressing the first meeting of the Inter-American defense board Knox said:

"The increasing danger of war coming to the Americas is shown by the gradual expansion of the theaters of action. In 1940 it was called the battle of Britain; in 1941, the battle of the north Atlantic. We must now prepare for an extension of the theater of action to the south Atlantic and to the entire Pacific.

"Enemy vessels are operating off the coasts of the United States and certain of the other American republics. These operations are evidently for the purpose of disrupting the sea communications between the Americas. The merchant shipping of all the American republics is in danger

"It is evident that the most urgent measure to be solved is the control and protection of our shipping."

Cautioning the Latin American nations against holding out any hope of a restoration of world peace in the near future, Knox said:

"The hope of a permanent peace must be deferred for the present. We must prepare for a long war. Our nations must prepare to fight for their own freedom—for that is tied up in that of mankind in general. This requires collaboration in the real sense of the word. It demands loyal cooperation and sacrifice. We must be prepared to give reciprocal aid.

"Let me emphasize that we are only protecting our own destinies by upholding the doctrine of con-

WEEK'S LOSS 22

Atlantic Ship Toll Since War Began Now Set at 98.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Sea warfare in Atlantic waters reaped a toll of 22 United Nations ships in the past week, bringing the officially announced total of Atlantic sinkings since Pearl Harbor to 98.

The loss of 12 vessels off the eastern U. S. coast was announced between March 22 and March 28, making 51 sinkings in the area since last Dec. 7.

In Canadian waters, five sinkings last week made the total since Pearl Harbor 22; in the Caribbean, five more brought that region's losses to 24, while off South America only one ship has been reported sunk since U. S. entry into the war.

TRAINMEN HURT

Injured When Freight Plows Into Rear Of Another Near Celina.

CELINA, O.—(INS)—Two trainmen were recovering today from injuries received when a double-header freight train plowed into the rear of another freight on the Nickel Plate line at nearby Coldwater, overturning seven empty cars and tying up traffic for nearly three hours.

The injured crew members were G. C. Taber, 26, of Bellevue, and C. H. Miller, 23, of Lima, a brakeman.

Proposes Income Deductions For Medical Expense

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — The treasury proposed today that family income tax deductions be enlarged to allow credit for "extraordinary medical expenses" and for children between 18 and 21 who are attending college.

Randolph Paul, treasury tax adviser, presented the treasury's new recommendation to the house ways and means committee.

He restated the treasury's belief that husbands and wives should be required to file joint income tax returns. But he modified the treasury's original recommendations by proposing that in families where the wife works an additional credit should be allowed for incidental expenses, such as care of dependent children. He suggested that this credit be an amount equal to 10 per cent of the wife's earnings in no case to exceed $10.

A similar credit, Paul told the committee, should be allowed to the widowed mother who works.

Family medical expenses regardless of the amount are not deductible now.

SEEK CLEMENCY

Communists Urge Roosevelt to Release Browder From Prison.

NEW YORK — (INS) — President Roosevelt was urged today to exercise executive clemency and "immediately release" Earl Browder, general secretary of the Communist party, from prison. The plea came at the close of the two-day convention of the National Free Browder congress.

Browder has served one year of a four-year sentence in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga., for using a passport containing a false statement.

GRAND JURORS OPEN PROBE OF FARM SHOOTING

Panel to Take Up Wounding of Farm Hand by Employer Who Had Broken Back.

25 CASES ON DOCKET

Prosecutor Predicts Session, Ahead of Schedule Now, Will End Tuesday Night.

The Richland county grand jury was scheduled this afternoon to investigate the shooting of James Wilson, 30-year-old farm hand and Mansfield reformatory parolee, at a farm home southeast of Mansfield seven weeks ago.

The jury, which convened at 9 a. m. today, was expected to consider 25 cases today and tomorrow. It was a little ahead of schedule at noon today, Prosecutor Harold Lutz said, and probably will finish the session Tuesday night.

Accused of shooting Wilson is Willis Harris, 46, former guard at the reformatory, who allegedly fired the shotgun charge while he was in bed with a broken back. Wilson worked for Harris on the farm.

Harris told officers he shot Wilson because he wasn't going to let the parolee "go 'over the hill,'" which in prison parlance, means leaving the presence of a person to whom the inmate is paroled.

Wilson, who has recovered from his injury, and Miss Zola Chamberlain, 38 Harris' housekeeper who allegedly was in the room when Wilson was shot, were among the witnesses called to testify by Prosecutor Lutz. Miss Chamberlain has been held under bond at the county jail since shortly after the shooting. No charge was placed against her.

Among the other cases on the grand jury's calendar is one involving Raymond J. Brown, former Mansfield attorney, charged with forging the name of one of his clients to checks totaling more than $800.

In all, the jurors will be asked to probe six cases involving charges of shooting or cutting with intent to wound and kill. Held on shooting charges are Harris and Lawrence Newsome. The jury will study charges of cutting with intent to wound against Rufus Dawson, James Cunningham, Edward Kenney, and Walter Clay.

RECORD FALL

Washington Buried Under 18-Inch Snowfall.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Washington dug out today from its heaviest March snowfall of record to count thousands of its trees broken or felled and many power lines disrupted by the unusual weather but no serious accidents were reported.

The snow fell Saturday night and most of yesterday, reaching a general depth of 15 to 18 inches through the weather bureau officially listed the depth as eight inches in downtown sectors. Nearly 3,000 men worked to clear streets this morning. Traffic moved on principal thoroughfares about as normal after being paralyzed most of yesterday.

The storm recalled that of January, 1922, when a 26-inch snowfall caused the collapse of the Knickerbocker theater roof with the death of more than 100 persons.

Unknown General

Wainwright of Batan

LEAN, hardbitten Jonathan M. Wainwright who succeeded General MacArthur as leader of the American-Filipino forces on Batan peninsula is a staff officer who likes to lead his men on the battlefield. His comment on a Japanese demand for surrender— no reply was necessary, none was made"—is already a classic. These are some of the highlights in the career of the 59-year-old native of Walla Walla, Wash.

COUNTY HAS 3RD SAFE WEEK-END

Escapes Listing in Traffic Toll While Ohio Marks Up 10 Fatalities.

Richland county added another injury-free week-end to its traffic safety record Saturday and Sunday, although four persons were injured one seriously, in accidents just outside the county and 10 fatalities were chalked up in Ohio traffic.

It was the third consecutive week-end in which no injuries or deaths were reported in Richland county and Mansfield traffic and it is believed the longest period in recent years that the city and county have had no major week-end traffic mishaps.

Homer S. Kleinknecht, 27, of Galion, was seriously injured at 1:15 a. m. today when his car crashed into a utility pole along U. S. Route 30-S one mile east of Galion. He is in City hospital at Galion. Attendants said he is suffering from a crushed chest and internal injuries.

State highway patrolmen said Kleinknecht apparently went to sleep and lost control of his car which swerved off the highway and crashed into the pole.

ORDERS EASED

Evacuation of German, Italian Residents Relaxed in West.

SAN FRANCISCO — (U.P.) — Evacuation orders for German and Italian aliens were relaxed today in a proclamation issued by Lieut. Gen. John L. DeWitt, commanding the western defense command and the Fourth army.

There was no easing of regulations, however, against Japanese aliens or their American born children who face removal from the primary military area along the Pacific coast.

With an 8 p. m.— 6 a. m. curfew already in force for all enemy aliens and Japanese-Americans, further restrictions on the movement of Japanese became effective yesterday. Henceforth they may not leave the areas in which they live until they are evacuated by the army.

8 OF 10 DENY LIQUOR CHARGES

Hearings Are Continued After Raids on Suspected 'Bootleg' Places in City.

Eight of 10 Mansfield residents arrested yesterday when state liquor department agents and Mansfield police staged early-morning raids on five suspected "bootleg" places in the city pleaded innocent today upon arraignment in municipal court and were given continuances of hearings until April 9.

The raiders struck simultaneously at all five places shortly after 12:30 a. m. Evidence prompting the raids, according to liquor agents was gathered by two state inspectors who made "buys" at the places during the past month.

This was the city's first wholesale liquor raid since last August when nine persons were arrested on liquor charges. Seven state liquor inspectors and 12 city policemen took part in the raids yesterday.

Charles "Bun" Drye, colored, 97 East Sixth street, pleaded innocent to a charge that he kept a place where liquor was sold ille-

Call King For Progress Report On Sub Warfare

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — Admiral Ernest J. King, chief of naval operations, probably will be called before the senate naval affairs committee this week for questioning on the German submarine menace to American shipping.

Chairman David I. Walsh, D., Mass., said today that King would be questioned regarding progress of the "intensified" drive against Nazi submarines which have sent 53 vessels to the bottom since January in attacks off the U. S. Atlantic coast.

Committee members have requested information on functioning of unified army-navy patrol activities, announced last week, in which a considerable number of army air units are operating under direction of naval officers.

Walsh said requests for assurances that "satisfactory" steps are being taken to meet the submarine menace have been received from both public and congressional sources.

7 Nations to Join In Laying Out War Plans

Roosevelt Announces Creation Of New Body, Calls First Session For Wednesday, Australia And New Zealand Represented.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt today announced creation of a new Pacific war council which will hold its first meeting in the White House Wednesday, April 1.

Represented on the new body, which will consider grand strategy of the war in the Pacific, will be Australia, New Zealand, the Netherlands, Canada, Great Britain and the United States.

In a formal statement, the president declared:

"It is imperative that all of the United Nations now actively engaged in the Pacific conflict consider together matters of policy relating to our joint war effort.

"An effective war can only be prosecuted with the complete cooperation and understanding of all nations concerned.

"The new council will be in intimate contact with a similar body in London."

President Roosevelt will represent the United States on the council. Lord Halifax will speak for Great Britain, Australian Foreign Minister Herbert Evatt, New Zealand Minister Walter Nash, Dutch Minister A. Loudon are also members.

Chinese Foreign Minister T. V. Soong and Hume Wrong, councilor of the Canadian legation will complete the body.

Creation of the council came at the insistence of Australia and New Zealand which felt they should have a more direct voice in the strategy of the war and that deliberations of such a war council should be transferred from London to Washington.

Both Dr. Evatt and Minister Nash have been outspoken in recent weeks in their demand for such a council. The Dutch and the Chinese backed the idea equally.

Councilor Wrong will represent Canada at the opening assembly of the council on Wednesday because Minister Leighton McCarthy will not be in Washington on that day. It was indicated that McCarthy would speak for the dominion at subsequent sessions.

SMASHED: Batan Defenders Repulse Japanese Raiders

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—The war department reported today that Japanese attacks on the Batan peninsula in the Philippines dwindled after having been repulsed with heavy losses.

Hostile air raids continued day and night on the fortified island of Corregidor, however, a communique said, adding that one enemy plane flying above 27,000 feet was shot down by anti-aircraft shells.

On the southern island of Mindanao local skirmishes took place meanwhile between patrols at three widely separated points.

Following repulse of a heavy Japanese attack on the Batan peninsula on Saturday, fighting continued throughout the night but died down at daybreak yesterday, the war department said.

The communique, number 168, said "there is nothing to report from other areas."

Both the troops on Batan and those manning the fortresses guarding Manila Bay took a heavy pounding over the week-end but handed out better than they received, the war department disclosed yesterday.

On Batan, the Japanese attacked in force Saturday along the right center of the American-Filipino line. The initial onslaught temporarily dislodged the outpost units of the defending forces, but the enemy was quickly hurled back by a prompt counter-attack in which Lieutenant General Wainwright used all his forces to excellent advantage.

The Japanese suffered "heavy losses," the department reported. American-Filipino casualties were termed relatively light. All positions were retaken.

The harbor forts had a busy time of it. All day Saturday Corregidor was under frequent air attacks by Japanese bombers but the concentrated anti-aircraft fire from Fort Mills on Corregidor, Fort Drum and Fort Frank kept

DEADLOCKED: Nazi Still Are Trying To Crack Red Front

(By Associated Press)

The war that Adolf Hitler started on the Polish frontier 31 months ago was today a tangled contest of sea and air power in western Europe and the Mediterranean basin, and, above all, an effort to break the deadlock on the 2,000-mile Russian front.

On the blizzard-swept Arctic seaway to Murmansk, the Germans acknowledged that one of the Fuehrer's precious destroyers went down in battle with a convoy to Russia but claimed the sinking of a 10,000-ton transport loaded with tanks and munitions.

Once more in Libya, fighting columns of the British imperials struck into German and Italian positions behind the Tumimi-El Mechili line. In these Saturday night forays, it was said, highly mobile field guns were turned on Axis positions.

Rome reported large air battles over Libya and claimed German fighter planes destroyed four British aircraft. New bombing raids on Tobruk and Malta were reported.

The blows of Britain's springtime aerial offensive fell last night on German shipping off the Norwegian coast.

The British announced the action without detail and said that in Saturday night's raid on Germany's big Baltic port of Lucheck the RAF bombers struck down two intercepting planes while in last Thursday night's attack on the Ruhr valley one was downed.

There was no word in the RAF communique to substantiate a German radio report that German territory also was bombed last night.

The Berlin communique, issued after the broadcast, said that the

By WENDELL WEBB

PEARL HARBOR, T. H. (AP) —Today it was certainly simple—the way Lieut. Edward H. (Butch) O'Hare told it.

All he did was tackle nine twin-engined Japanese bombers single-handed. He bagged six of them, maybe seven.

"You see, you just kind of go in there and—" his voice trailed away and he gestured resignedly because such a fuss was being made.

The scene was the officers' quarters here. O'Hare was asked just how he took off from the carrier in a single-seater fighting plane and in less than ten minutes later sent probably 40 Japanese fliers and a half-million dollars worth of enemy planes crashing into the sea.

He had a hard time telling about it. The 28-year-old native of St. Louis, Mo., didn't feel talkative. He fidgeted on the piano bench.

His squadron leader, Lieut. Commander John S. Thach, of Fordyce, Ark.—himself credited with three planes that day—was willing to talk—about O'Hare.

A wave of nine bombers was reported approaching, and O'Hare went into action. Other carrier planes were being refueled or were not in the immediate vicinity.

Start Observance Of Holy Week In Galion's Churches

GALION—Distribution of palms, baptisms, confirmation of catechism students, the reception of new members and other observances marked the Palm Sunday observance in Galion as Holy Week was ushered in by the many churches of the city.

Churches where palms were distributed to the members included the two Catholic denominations, St. Patrick's and St. Joseph's; and the United Brethren, and Grace Episcopal.

Three churches held confirmation services for students of catechism.

At the Trinity Lutheran church, Rev. H. R. Merle confirmed the following students: Joel and Merle Haas, Louise Wright, Charles Ness, Robert Lamb, Raymond Ricker, Merce Rick, Lloyd Ross and Allen Laughbaum. Reception of new members and baptisms were also held at the church.

Rev. Phillip E. Auer confirmed the following students at the Peace Lutheran church: Raymond Malone, Dale Neumann, Eldon Neumann, Robert Mahler, Raymond Webber, James Smith, Betty Durtschi, Gloria Saperstein, Ruth Richardson and Avis LaVerne Forrest.

Practically every church in the city held some observance, in song and sermon, of Palm Sunday.

COURT NEWS IN ASHLAND COUNTY

ASHLAND — Common Pleas Judge H. E. Culbertson has ruled in the case of Perla Jacobs against the Industrial Commission that the plaintiff, the widow of Charles M. Jacobs, is entitled to state industrial compensation, medical and funeral bills in the death of her husband.

Judge Culbertson heard testimony in the suit last week after a jury was dismissed. The plaintiff's husband, while in the employ of the Ashland city garbage department on Nov. 6, 1939, fell, during an epileptic seizure, on a cinder street while carrying a pail of garbage. He died of a cerebral hemorrhage on Nov. 17, 1939. Judge Culbertson ruled that Jacobs was injured in the course of his employment and that though he fell during an attack of illness, his widow should receive compensation as workmen's compensation act makes no distinction between healthy and diseased persons.

A suit seeking $25,000 for injuries received in an automobile accident has been filed in common pleas court by Margaret Snider of Huron against R. F. Long of Massillon and Oyler Brothers. The accident occurred on March 16, 1941, two miles east of Hayesville on U. S. route 30.

The divorce case of Loda Simms vs. Robert Earl Simms has been reopened in common pleas court with a decree granted to the defendant vacated. The defendant was granted a decree on his cross petition after Mrs. Simms withdrew her petition and on motion to reopen the case it was found there had been no service on Mrs. Simms on the cross petition after her petition and reply were dismissed and also a claim of fraud on the part of Simms was allowed in that the plaintiff claimed she had dismissed the petition and reply after her husband had promised to dismiss the cross petition.

TODAY

CUFFLESS PANTS are a mark of Patriotic Cooperation

The War Production Board's clothing regulations go into effect today . . . and we at Richman Brothers will comply with the law, in letter and in spirit.

There has been a lot of misinformation (printed and spoken) concerning these regulations, so here are the facts. Today, it is unlawful for any person to put cuffs on wool trousers.

Frankly, we do not consider this too great a sacrifice for anyone to make for his country in time of war, and we do not believe that any good American will mind giving up pants cuffs to save the wool that we need so badly.

Beyond the elimination of cuffs, there is no change in style that affects you at once. As of today, the making of two pants suits is ruled out and the tailoring of clothing is regulated, but these regulations are slight . . . and do not apply to suits in stock.

Under the circumstances, there is little justification for the frantic rush to stock up on clothes . . . a rush that, we regret to say, has made it impossible for us to offer our customers our usual complete selections and usual good Richman Brothers service.

A TIMELY TIP
Our tailor shops ship new clothes to our stores every week—so why not come in after Easter, when we will be able to serve you better?

7-NATION WAR COUNCIL SET UP BY ROOSEVELT

President Announces Pacific Board; First Session Set For Wednesday.

her motley millions today to accept or reject.

The final triumph for the cause of 390,000,000 varied, contentious inhabitants of the great sub-continent still depended, however, on three things.

First, the stipulation in Britain's offer, announced yesterday by Sir Stafford Cripps, her emissary of freedom to India, that self-rule must await until after the war.

Then, India must decide that the offer of Britain's war cabinet is acceptable.

And her bickering patchwork of minorities must work out a formula to make independence a working reality.

The first indication was that the British plan would be acceptable although Mohandas K. Gandhi, the wizened little leader in whom India's struggle has become personified, was reported as wary that the proposal would keep India from attaining full political integrity.

In brief, Sir Stafford's announcement envisaged a new India union after the war which would be a dominion within the British Empire with the right, if it chose, to secede.

Until the war's end, however, vast India's defense would remain under British control and Britain would expect her people to marshal all their manpower and resources to beat off the enemy already based in the Andaman islands and in Burma.

Floods Force Japs Into Hasty Retreat

BULLETIN

GENERAL MAC ARTHUR'S HEADQUARTER, Australia—(U P)—Australian Air Minister Arthur S. Drakeford said today that American and Australian warplanes have wrested air superiority from the Japanese over New Guinea and New Britain at the northern approaches to Australia.

This air mastery marks a new "strategical difference" in the struggle being waged around the Allies' last land base in the southwest Pacific, the minister said.

The elements today began combating the Japanese in their effort to consolidate positions in territory above Australia when torrential rains forced the invaders to evacuate the city of Lae on the coast of northeast New Guinea.

Word from Port Moresby, southern New Guinea port under Australian control, said rainfalls exceeding 40 inches had converted mountain tributaries into raging torrents. The surging waters flooded the Markham valley where the Japanese have sought to make their way inland to establish airports between the hills.

There was a comparative lull in war activity in the Australian theater, with a considerable decrease in air attacks by the Japanese.

An announcement in Melbourne said, however, that six Japanese bomber and fighter planes had been destroyed in week-end attacks over Port Darwin, on the northern coast of the commonwealth, and Port Moresby. Two other Jap planes were damaged. Two Royal Australian air force planes also were destroyed.

The political expert of the Melbourne Herald meanwhile stated that the Australian cabinet at its meeting this week was basing its discussions on the assumption that a Japanese drive in force against Australia will be undertaken within two or three weeks.

Fierce battling was in progress in central Burma, where the Japanese are pounding heavily against Toungoo The latest communique from the British command at New Delhi, India, said British reconnaissance elements had made contact with advance Japanese guards 30 miles south of Prome in western Burma British armored forces were said to be moving down to attack the enemy.

MacArthur Spirit Grows In Australia

SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA —(INS)—The influence of Gen. Douglas MacArthur is taking quick effect today among all American and Australian forces

Increased elan, enthusiasm, snap and drive are in evidence everywhere since the general's arrival to take over command of all United Nations forces in the southwest Pacific.

A general shakeup in certain quarters is expected.

Gen. MacArthur already has his own aides inspecting the entire Australian set up.

Certain high officers say they expect a Japanese attack on Australia and New Caledonia, east of the continent. They base their opinion on the previous attack pattern of the Japs which apparently is being followed religiously

Nobody expects the Japs to attempt to conquer Australia but they expect them to try to seize bases for attacks on American supply lines.

TURFMAN'S WIFE DIES

LOUISVILLE —(AP)— Mrs Julia Sweeney, 38, wife of Russell Sweeney, resident manager of Churchill Downs and daughter of Col. Matt Winn, American Turf association president and head of the Churchill Downs association died here last night.

FDR OKAYS DEBT LIMIT MEASURE

Bill Will Permit Treasury to Finance War Expenditures.

WASHINGTON —(U P)— President Roosevelt today signed the bill raising the federal statutory debt limit from $65,000,000,000 to $125,000,000,000 to enable the treasury to finance war expenditures which will exceed $4,000,000,000 a month.

The national debt already is over $62,000,000,000. Officials said it would go beyond $70,000,000,000 by June 30.

Projected war expenditures will push the national debt beyond $110,000,000,000 by the end of the next fiscal year, June 30, 1943, even if congress enacts all the new taxes asked by the administration.

NAZIS LOCKED ON RED FRONT

Dutch coast was attacked in the night and that two British planes were shot down

The British air ministry news service said the RAF was using fast fighter-bombers and night fighters in extended sweeps against enemy territory.

The German high command reported "severe losses" among civilians in Saturday night's attack on Luebeck

The Germans reported that renewed Russian attacks on the eastern front had collapsed. Specifically mentioned was the sector east of Kharkov. Armament factories on the upper Volga and the center of Moscow were bombed yesterday, the communique said.

Leningrad and the nearby Baltic naval base of Kronstadt were reported shelled "with good success."

Britain was assured today that the Saturday morning smash at St. Nazaire cost probably less than 100 in killed, wounded and missing among the asault forces.

The full implication of the daring British commando raid on the German submarine nest at St. Nazaire, occupied France, appeared in a prediction by a well-informed source in London that the damage would cripple the base for a year and curtail U-boat activities in the Atlantic for some time.

The British acclaimed the exploit as one of the most spectacular in their history.

Beaverbrook Urges Aid For Russia

MIAMI BEACH, Fla —(INS)— Urging the utmost speed in sending all possible supplies to the Russian battlefront, Lord Beaverbrook, British lease-lend co-ordinator, today was on record with the assertion that the "hopes of humanity" lie chiefly on the Russian-German front — the "most critical battlefront in the history of civilization."

In a broadcast to Canada from his hotel, Lord Beaverbrook, who arrived in the United States last week to speed lease-lend aid to the Allies, said President Roosevelt and Prime Ministers Churchill and Mackenzie King, of Canada, were fully aware of the urgency in speeding war materials to the Russian front.

ASKS DISMISSAL OF COURT SUIT

Wife of Former Bond-Clerk Says Clark County Farm Was Hers.

SPRINGFIELD — (INS) — Mrs Alice Mae Cortner, Columbus, today asked Clark county common pleas court to dismiss a suit filed in 1940 by former State Treasurer Harry S Day against her husband, W. Merl Cortner, who served a prison term for conviction on a charge of embezzling $36,514 while he was chief bond clerk in the treasurer's office from 1931 to 1935

Day's suit charged that Cortner executed a quit-claim deed in favor of his wife for a 177-acre Clark county farm. Mrs. Cortner told the court she purchased the farm with her own funds but that the deed was listed in both names to comply with Federal Land Bank loan requirements

Start Observance Of Holy Week In Galion's Churches

GALION—Distribution of palms, baptisms, confirmation of catechism students, the reception of new members and other observances marked the Palm Sunday observance in Galion as Holy Week was ushered in by the many churches of the city.

Churches where palms were distributed to the members included the two Catholic denominations, St. Patrick's and St. Joseph's; and the United Brethren, and Grace Episcopal.

Three churches held confirmation services for students of catechism.

At the Trinity Lutheran church, Rev. H. R. Merle confirmed the following students: Joel and Merle Haas, Louise Wright, Charles Ness, Robert Lamb, Raymond Ricker, Meroe Rick, Lloyd Ross and Allen Laughbaum. Reception of new members and baptisms were also held at the church.

Rev. Phillip E. Auer confirmed the following students at the Peace Lutheran church: Raymond Malone, Dale Neumann, Eldon Neumann, Robert Mahler, Raymond Webber, James Smith, Betty Durtschi, Gloria Saperstein, Ruth Richardson and Avis LaVerne Forrest.

Practically every church in the city held some observance, in song and sermon, of Palm Sunday.

COURT NEWS IN ASHLAND COUNTY

ASHLAND — Common Pleas Judge H. E. Culbertson has ruled in the case of Perla Jacobs against the Industrial Commission that the plaintiff, the widow of Charles M. Jacobs, is entitled to state industrial compensation, medical and funeral bills in the death of her husband.

Judge Culbertson heard testimony in the suit last week after a jury was dismissed. The plaintiff's husband, while in the employ of the Ashland city garbage department on Nov. 6, 1939, fell, during an epileptic seizure, on a cinder street while carrying a pail of garbage. He died of a cerebral hemorrhage on Nov. 17, 1939. Judge Culbertson ruled that Jacobs was injured in the course of his employment and that though he fell during an attack of illness, his widow should receive compensation as workmen's compensation act makes no distinction between healthy and diseased persons.

A suit seeking $25,000 for injuries received in an automobile accident has been filed in common pleas court by Margaret Snider of Huron against R. F. Long of Massillon and Oyler Brothers. The accident occurred on March 16, 1941, two miles east of Hayesville on U. S. route 30.

The divorce case of Loda Simms vs. Robert Earl Simms has been reopened in common pleas court with a decree granted to the defendant vacated. The defendant was granted a decree on his cross petition after Mrs. Simms withdrew her petition and on motion to reopen the case it was found there had been no service on Mrs. Simms on the cross petition after her petition and reply were dismissed and also a claim of fraud on the part of Simms was allowed in that the plaintiff claimed she had dismissed the petition and reply after her husband had promised to dismiss the cross petition.

CARE FOR YOUR CAR—for your Country!

TODAY

CUFFLESS PANTS are a mark of Patriotic Cooperation

The War Production Board's clothing regulations go into effect today . . . and we at Richman Brothers will comply with the law, in letter and in spirit.

There has been a lot of misinformation (printed and spoken) concerning these regulations, so here are the facts. Today, it is unlawful for any person to put cuffs on wool trousers.

Frankly, we do not consider this too great a sacrifice for anyone to make for his country in time of war, and we do not believe that any good American will mind giving up pants cuffs to save the wool that we need so badly.

Beyond the elimination of cuffs, there is no change in style that affects you at once. As of today, the making of two pants suits is ruled out and the tailoring of clothing is regulated, but these regulations are slight . . . and do not apply to suits in stock.

Under the circumstances, there is little justification for the frantic rush to stock up on clothes . . . a rush that, we regret to say, has made it impossible for us to offer our customers our usual complete selections and usual good Richman Brothers service.

A TIMELY TIP

Our tailor shops ship new clothes to our stores every week—so why not come in after Easter, when we will be able to serve you better?

7-NATION WAR COUNCIL SET UP BY ROOSEVELT

President Announces Pacific Board; First Session Set For Wednesday.

her motley millions today to accept or reject.

The final triumph for the cause of 390,000,000 varied, contentious inhabitants of the great sub-continent still depended, however, on three things.

First, the stipulation in Britain's offer, announced yesterday by Sir Stafford Cripps, her emissary of freedom to India, that self-rule must await until after the war.

Then, India must decide that the offer of Britain's war cabinet is acceptable.

And her bickering patchwork of minorities must work out a formula to make independence a working reality.

The first indication was that the British plan would be acceptable although Mohandas K. Gandhi, the wizened little leader in whom India's struggle has become personified, was reported as wary that the proposal would keep India from attaining full political integrity.

In brief, Sir Stafford's announcement envisaged a new India union after the war which would be a dominion within the British Empire with the right, if it chose, to secede.

Until the war's end, however, vast India's defense would remain under British control and Britain would expect her people to marshal all their manpower and resources to beat off the enemy already based in the Andaman islands and in Burma

BULLETIN

GENERAL MAC ARTHUR'S HEADQUARTER, Australia—(U P)—Australian Air Minister Arthur S. Drakeford said today that American and Australian warplanes have wrested air superiority from the Japanese over New Guinea and New Britain at the northern approaches to Australia.

This air mastery marks a new "strategical difference" in the struggle being waged around the Allies' last land base in the southwest Pacific, the minister said.

The elements today began combating the Japanese in their effort to consolidate positions in territory above Australia when torrential rains forced the invaders to evacuate the city of Lae on the coast of northeast New Guinea

Word from Port Moresby, southern New Guinea port under Australian control, said rainfalls exceeding 40 inches had converted mountain tributaries into raging torrents The surging waters flooded the Markham valley where the Japanese have sought to make their way inland to establish airports between the hills

There was a comparative lull in war activity in the Australian theater, with a considerable decrease in air attacks by the Japanese.

An announcement in Melbourne said, however, that six Japanese bomber and fighter planes had been destroyed in week-end attacks over Port Darwin, on the northern coast of the commonwealth, and Port Moresby. Two other Jap planes were damaged Two Royal Australian air force planes also were destroyed

The political expert of the Melbourne Herald meanwhile stated that the Australian cabinet at its meeting this week was basing its discussions on the assumption that a Japanese drive in force against Australia will be undertaken within two or three weeks.

Fierce battling was in progress in central Burma, where the Japanese are pounding heavily against Toungoo The latest communique from the British command at New Delhi, India, said British reconnaissance elements had made contact with advance Japanese guards 30 miles south of Prome in western Burma British armored forces were said to be moving down to attack the enemy.

MacArthur Spirit Grows In Australia

SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA —(INS)—The influence of Gen Douglas MacArthur is taking quick effect today among all American and Australian forces

Increased elan, enthusiasm, snap and drive are in evidence everywhere since the general's arrival to take over command of all United Nations forces in the southwest Pacific.

A general shakeup in certain quarters is expected

Gen. MacArthur already has his own aides inspecting the entire Australian set up

Certain high officers say they expect a Japanese attack on Australia and New Caledonia, east of the continent. They base their opinion on the previous attack pattern of the Japs which apparently is being followed religiously

Nobody expects the Japs to attempt to conquer Australia but they expect them to try to seize bases for attacks on American supply lines

TURFMAN'S WIFE DIES

LOUISVILLE —(AP)— Mrs Julia Sweeney, 38, wife of Russell Sweeney, resident manager of Churchill Downs and daughter of Col. Matt Winn, American Turf association president and head of the Churchill Downs association died here last night.

FDR OKAYS DEBT LIMIT MEASURE

Bill Will Permit Treasury to Finance War Expenditures.

WASHINGTON —(U P)— President Roosevelt today signed the bill raising the federal statutory debt limit from $65,000,000,000 to $125,000,000,000 to enable the treasury to finance war expenditures which will exceed $4,000,000,000 a month.

The national debt already is over $62 000,000,000 Officials said it would go beyond $70,000,000,000 by June 30

Projected war expenditures will push the national debt beyond $110 000,000,000 by the end of the next fiscal year, June 30, 1943, even if congress enacts all the new taxes asked by the administration.

NAZIS LOCKED ON RED FRONT

Dutch coast was attacked in the night and that two British planes were shot down

The British air ministry news service said the RAF was using fast fighter-bombers and night fighters in extended sweeps against enemy territory

The German high command reported "severe losses" among civilians in Saturday night's attack on Luebeck

The Germans reported that renewed Russian attacks on the eastern front had collapsed Specifically mentioned was the sector east of Kharkov. Armament factories on the upper Volga and the center of Moscow were bombed yesterday, the communique said.

Leningrad and the nearby Baltic naval base of Kronstadt were reported shelled "with good success"

Britain was assured today that the Saturday morning smash at St. Nazaire cost probably less than 100 in killed, wounded and missing among the asault forces.

The full implication of the daring British commando raid on the German submarine nest at St Nazaire, occupied France, appeared in a prediction by a well-informed source in London that the damage would cripple the base for a year and curtail U-boat activities in the Atlantic for some time.

The British acclaimed the exploit as one of the most spectacular in their history.

Beaverbrook Urges Aid For Russia

MIAMI BEACH, Fla —(INS)— Urging the utmost speed in sending all possible supplies to the Russian battlefront, Lord Beaverbrook, British lease-lend co-ordinator, today was on record with the assertion that the "hopes of humanity" lie chiefly on the Russian-German front — the "most critical battlefront in the history of civilization."

In a broadcast to Canada from his hotel, Lord Beaverbrook, who arrived in the United States last week to speed lease-lend aid to the Allies, said President Roosevelt and Prime Ministers Churchill and Mackenzie King, of Canada, were fully aware of the urgency in speeding war materials to the Russian front

Wife of Former Bond-Clerk Says Clark County Farm Was Hers.

SPRINGFIELD — (INS) — Mrs Alice Mae Cortner, Columbus, today asked Clark county common pleas court to dismiss a suit filed in 1940 by former State Treasurer Harry S Day against her husband W Merl Cortner, who served a prison term for conviction on a charge of embezzling $36,514 while he was chief bond clerk in the treasurer's office from 1931 to 1935

Day's suit charged that Cortner executed a quit-claim deed in favor of his wife for a 177-acre Clark county farm Mrs Cortner told the court she purchased the farm with her own funds but that the deed was listed in both names to comply with Federal Land Bank loan requirements

tinental solidarity This continent is in imminent peril from non-American aggression. We must cooperate in making effective the combined plans recommended by the inter-American defense board"

Delegates addressed by Knox included naval, military and diplomatic representatives of the 21 American republics Also present at the opening meeting were Secretary of War Stimson and Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles.

Representing the most important body of its kind ever established, the board will draft plans for strengthening the defenses of this hemisphere against Axis attack

Among the major proposals to be considered by the board are

1—Joint action for the protection of inter-American shipping, including the use of convoys,

2—Mutual use of air and naval bases,

3—Cooperative measures for the weeding out and suppression of Axis spies, saboteurs and other agents in this hemisphere

Moderate Use of Cars Advised

EXCEPT for motorists who have definitely decided to "get along without a car" there is no apparent good reason to decide against purchase of new license plates, so that the car may be kept in operation after tomorrow night.

There has recently been a "selling wave" of privately owned cars, possibly induced by an intimation that the government might commandeer automobiles, or through belief that cars would eventually become worthless because of lack of tires.

Any idea that the government contemplates seizure of privately owned cars might as well be dropped from consideration, as, if such a thing ever comes about there will be much more serious things to be disturbed over than loss of individual transportation.

Limited use of cars, rather than selling them or keeping them in the garage unused for several months, is the recommended course, as cars and tires deteriorate faster in total disuse than in moderate use.

Authorities say that, barring damage by accident, a car should be good for eight or ten years of efficient service, or up to 80,000 or 100,000 miles and that a good set of tires, watched properly and driven at 35 to 40 miles an hour, should yield at least 30,000 to 35,000 miles.

While some cars and tires are naturally nearing the end of their usefulness—and should be traded in while good used cars are still available—a vast majority of the cars now in use should meet requirements of "necessary driving" for several years to come—by which time conditions will probably be considerably better or infinitely worse.

Meanwhile, keep in mind that tomorrow is the last day for legal use of 1941 license plates. If you don't already have your new plates, find a place at the end of the line that will be waiting through tomorrow at the offices of the automobile club.

Cuffless Trousers From Now On

JUDGED by the week-end rush for men's suits it might appear that "cuffs" on trousers were an essential part of masculine attire and that wearing cuffless trousers would constitute an intolerable hardship.

But it wasn't so many years ago, even middle-aged men will recall, when trousers (or "pants" as they were then more commonly known) with cuffs were considered more of a collegiate affectation than an essential ornamentation.

The idea of a turn-up at the bottom of trouser legs seems to have originated in the days when "store clothes" came from the manufacturer in finished form and the "cuffs" provided extra material for lengthening when necessary.

Except for military uniforms, which are without cuffs, the idea of cuffs on trousers has been rather deeply implanted as being "more dressy," so it is with a sigh of regret that some men will contemplate the prospect of wearing cuffless trousers. And there'll be no more two-pants suits, nor vests with double-breasted models—by order of the war production board.

Encourage Bird House Building

STUDY of birds and their habits fits in quite naturally with the building of bird houses and in all probability many Mansfield children are indulging in this interesting pastime, in addition to those Western avenue pupils mentioned and pictured in Sunday's News-Journal.

Many present adults will pleasantly recall experiences in bird-house building when they were school children and appreciate the added knowledge of birds they acquired as a result.

During April, which is designated as Conservation month throughout Ohio, many activities will be carried on in schools, sportsmen's clubs, farm groups and others interested in furthering conservation in America.

One of the most common of these, for adults and children, is building suitable housing for favored birds which inhabit this area. The Ohio Division of Conservation and Natural Resources has prepared plans and diagram for a bluebird house which anyone interested can obtain free by writing to the Game Management Section of the Ohio Division of Conservation, Columbus.

Different Flags But Common Cause

MILITARY AFFAIRS of the United States and Canada, which carry good-neighboring to an unusual extreme, are now somewhat tangled. The governments seem to manage all right, but there are individual complications. When the United States entered the war, some 15,000 "Yanks" had enlisted in the Canadian army. Some of these boys lost their citizenship by taking an oath of allegiance to Canada. Others enlisted in branches of the service where they did not lose citizenship, but merely promised obedience to the Canadian authorities for duration of the war.

Now that their own country has entered the same war, many of them would like to return. The Canadian government will help in such repatriation.

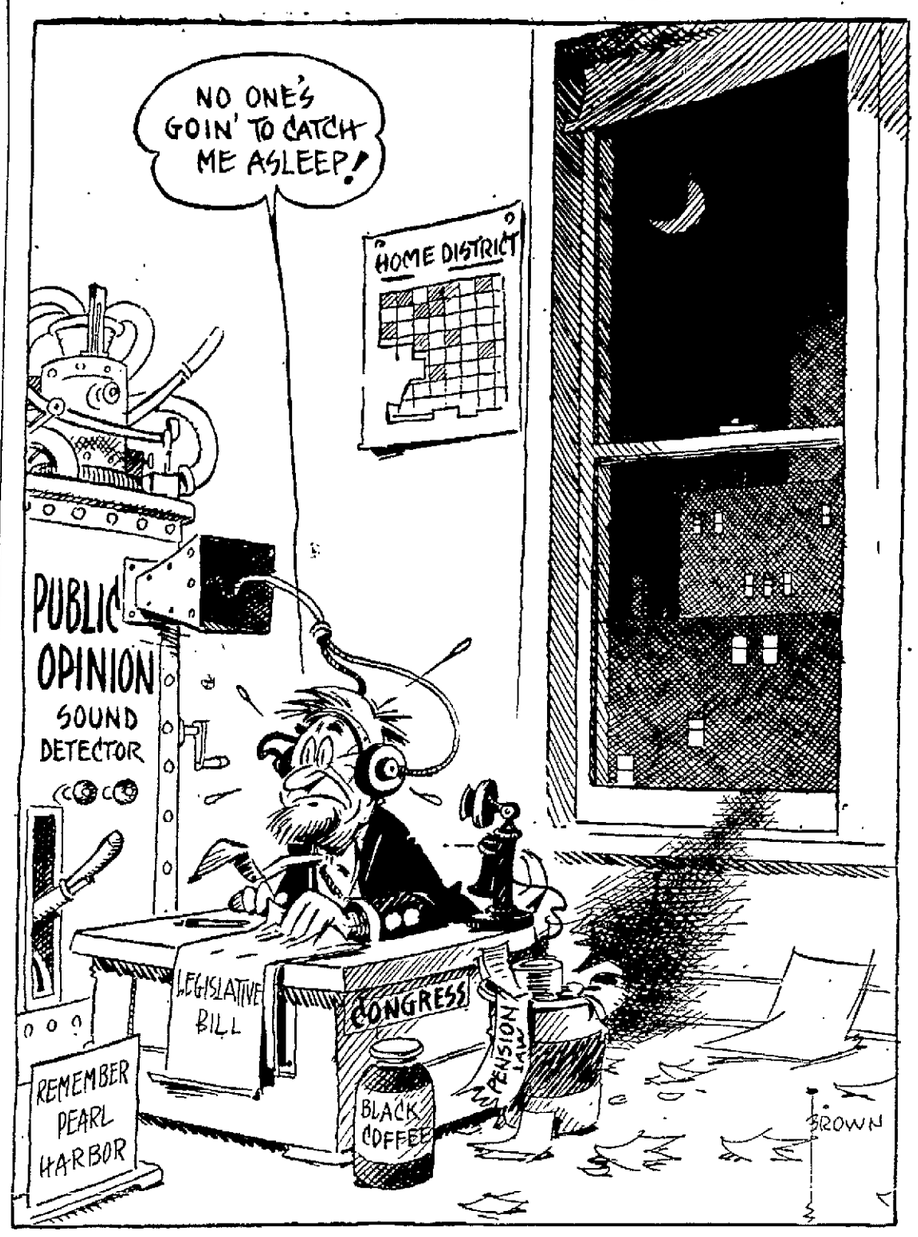
It is announced that Americans in Canadian service may apply for transfer to the states after April 1. Citizenship will be regained, apparently, by the simple process of transferring to the service of the United States. They will keep the same rank they have had in Canada if they pass the physical requirements of the United States army. Americans in the Royal Canadian air force may apply for service in our army, navy or marine air services.

It is remarkable how well the citizens of these two democracies seem to mesh, in work and play, in peace and war. In the present situation they might almost be regarded as interchangeable parts in a joint war and a common way of life.

Between 18 and 44 has been fixed as the age range of candidates for the women's volunteer army corps—but whether by affirmation or affidavit has not yet been announced.

Now that globes have come into more general use, exponents of the idea that the world is flat are keeping as quiet at Senator Wheeler.

MUST BE ELECTION YEAR



Profit-Cut Would Distress Few

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON — One of the shrewdest attacks on the attitude of certain labor leaders that has yet been made came, naturally enough, from Representative Howard Smith, of Virginia. It was all the shrewder in that the headlines over the newspaper accounts laid stress on the limitation of profits, rather than on the removal of government restrictions on the number of hours that may be worked per week.

There is no intent here to accuse Mr. Smith of trying to deceive, but he set up as an "attack" on profits by capital a straw man which can easily be knocked down. The adroitness lies in the fact that Mr. Smith WANTS his straw man to be knocked down.

THE point is that the alleged great profits of manufacturers on war contracts are nothing like so dear to the hearts of the manufacturers and their larger stockholders as the union labor leaders would have the public believe. Most of them would be delighted at some restrictions by the government which would cut those profits down to what almost anyone would consider a very reasonable figure indeed.

They want this for three different reasons. One is that it would tend to take them out of the hot spot, where they are the target for every demagogue, be he labor leader or politician, in the country. They might be able to stand such criticism if they were benefiting substantially, but it irks them considerably when they know perfectly well that just a few years back they could have made much larger profits in peace time.

The second reason is that they fear continuance of the present situation would make the probable wave of inflation certain. No one in business wants to see that. Actually they would be hurt less than the little fellow who is working for a salary, or wages, but only a few shrewd speculators would profit.

Inflation always works the same way, the way it did in Germany when the mark was having its sensational coast down to zero. The people who managed to lay their hands on a lot of physical property, be it land, buildings or what, but not money, not life insurance, not savings bank deposits, were and always are the ones to profit.

Most of the people are not able to "hedge" in this way against inflation. They get hurt.

Still a third reason is that the manufacturers are looking forward to after the war. They know that labor conditions imposed on them NOW will continue, and continuing, make trouble, during what may be a very trying period of reconstruction.

But to understand their attitude one must remember that it is the fairly big stockholders who control most corporations. Of necessity the big ones who control have large incomes. With the government already taking 30 per cent of corporation profits in corporation income taxes, and with personal income taxes soaring, on the pending bill, there will not be very much left for any one of them to spend or save no matter what the PERCENTAGE of profits the companies in which he is interested may be on war contracts.

So cutting them down to 6 per cent will distress the majority of them far less than the average citizen thinks.

Timely Editorial

Keep Him Rolling.

Newspapermen should stay out of politics in our opinion, the further out the better. But there are exceptions to every rule, notably Mike Monroney, ex-reporter and young congressman from Oklahoma.

It was Congressman Mike who devoted the hours of a Washington black-out to a careful reading of the Agriculture Department appropriation bill. What he found prompted a campaign which cut nearly 60 million dollars in frills out of the measure.

Sixty million dollars isn't much, on the one hand, compared to the billions which must be spent. It is such a huge sum, on the other hand, that the average citizen, who thinks in dollars and dimes, can't comprehend it.

It may help to point out that $60,000,000 is roughly 50 cents—five 10-cent defense stamps—for each man, woman and child in the country.

May the citizens of Oklahoma continue to save and save and elect and elect Congressman Monroney.— Cleveland Press.

J. M. R.:—"Why is it claimed that cold drinks are bad for stomach ulcer? Some say warm drinks should be used. Which is correct, and why do doctors differ on the question?"

Answer: Cold drinks aggravate the symptoms of stomach ulcer by causing the stomach to go into peristaltic waves which pass over the ulcer, causing distress. They do not make the ulcer worse, but simply start up the symptoms. I did not know that the doctors differed on the question.

B. B. C.:—There is a mechanical apparatus resembling a small gas mask to be worn over the nose to prevent hay fever. Is this an effectual preventive of hay fever?

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Mystery of 'Sea Otter' Deepens, New Ship Idea Given Run-Around

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

(The Brass Ring, good for a free ride on the Washington Merry-Go-Round—and in this case a bumpy one—goes to Joseph W. Powell, assistant to Secretary of the Navy Knox.)

WASHINGTON—Shortly after Frank Knox became secretary of the navy, he brought to Washington Joseph W. Powell, former vice-president of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding company.

Since then Mr. Powell has been severely criticized by the supreme court and put on the grill before the naval affairs committee in connection with the construction of the Sea Otter.

And last week, the president of the United States, after admitting that the Sea Otter had not been given a fair trial, icily remarked to Senators Gillette of Iowa and Brewster of Maine:

"Apparently the secretary of the navy has lots of confidence in the judgment of Mr. Powell."

To get the background, you have to begin with the last war when Powell in 1917 was vice-president of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding company and when the government, desperately in need of ships, asked Bethlehem to build them.

Powell at that time made a bid of $119,750,000 on troopships and tankers which the U. S. shipping board protested as "arbitrary" and upon which his company subsequently made a profit of $24,000,000 or 22%, with, as Justice Frankfurter expressed it, "absolutely no risk of loss."

Justice Frankfurter also took notice of Powell's friendship with Charles Piez, manager of the U. S. Fleet corporation.

"Relations between Powell and Piez were very close," Justice Frankfurter said. "Piez, as Powell knew, had had no shipbuilding experience whatsoever, had implicit confidence in Powell's integrity and was accustomed to look to him for information and assistance with respect to matters of shipbuilding."

The rush cost-plus contract which Powell negotiated for Bethlehem in 1917 subsequently was challenged by the justice department and after years of litigation finally was decided this year by the U. S. supreme court.

Long before the supreme court ruled, however, Frank Knox had ample means of checking up on Joe Powell. For a lower court compared Powell's shipbuilding deal with "daylight robbery," and, referring to him, mentioned "the famous Rob Roy distinction who admitted he was a robber but proudly proclaimed he was no thief."

Despite all this, however, the secretary of the navy appointed Joe Powell to the important job of his assistant.

Sea Otter Mystery.

SINCE then, the senate naval affairs committee has hauled Joe Powell before it, with some highly interesting results in connection with the Sea Otter.

The Sea Otter is the name given to a new transport ship originated by Commander Hamilton Bryan. It is small, low in the water so it will not be a good submarine target, and is powered by 16 automobile engines. The propeller is in the center of the ship so that the steel plates around the stern don't have to be of specially shaped steel. And the auto engines can be produced on the assembly line in no time.

Thus the ship is speedy of construction and speedy afloat.

However, those around the secretary of the navy didn't want to build the ship—until finally the president himself intervened. Then she was placed under the somewhat reluctant Mr. Powell and constructed at Orange, Texas, under rather unusual conditions.

For some strange reason, she was given no inspection whatsoever by naval inspectors during her construction. Commander Bryan, her originator, was ordered to keep away. And when she was launched, she was shot into the river from an 8 per cent incline and with a 12 knot speed, so that she buried her stern 60 feet in the mud of the opposite bank, strained her keel and opened some of her plates.

After that the navy trial board issued a report criticizing the construction of the vessel but holding out genuine hopes if she were properly constructed.

However, with Nazi U-boats sinking U. S. ships at a rate of two and three a day, the senate naval affairs committee has been digging into the Sea Otter. Senators Gillette and Brewster called personally on the president. He agreed that the navy had not given the ship a thorough-going test and told them he would put the whole thing back in the hands of the originator, Commander Bryan.

Next day Commander Bryan was called in by Secretary Knox, congratulated, and told that he was to have the Sea Otter back. So Commander Bryan wrote a formal letter to the secretary of the navy confirming this oral conversation and his understanding that the Sea Otter was to be rebuilt and given a fair trial.

Next day Bryan reports that Joe Powell called him in, shoved the letter under his nose and said: "Look here, the secretary understands nothing of the kind."

"I wrote the letter to him not to you," shot back Commander Bryan.

"And he's asked me to answer it."

The answer came very soon. It ordered Bryan on the retired list, told him to take over the Sea Otter, but to remove the navy crew, and warned that it could not be constructed in a U. S. navy yard. In other words, the Sea Otter now is in the hands of its originator all right, but with no money or means to construct it.

No one knows what the next move will be except there will be one. The senate naval affairs committee believes that opposition to the Sea Otter stems from fear that this new revolutionary type of ship would interfere with standard designs on which big shipbuilders are now waxing fat.

Three days after the White House conference Secretary Knox summoned Walter Lippmann and gave him a two-hour harangue on the iniquities of the Sea Otter. Next day Secretary Knox called in Donald Nelson for lunch with Admiral Robinson, who has opposed construction of the Sea Otter. Nelson also was given a long lecture as to why the Sea Otter should not be built.

All of which illustrates why there is many a slip 'twixt cup and lip in the war effort in Washington.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — Notes from a capital cuff:

You can't credit it to the administration, the army, the navy or anybody, but one of the frequently neard phrases around here is: "Don't put MacArthur on the spot." What is meant by this is simply, don't expect the miracle man of Bataan to turn the tide of battle in the southwest Pacific.

Given an army, an air force and naval support, General MacArthur might be able to take the offensive from Australia. But the well deserved laurels he has earned so far were based on just the opposite. With an inferior (in numbers) ground force, practically no air support at all, and nothing in the way of a navy, he fought a great defensive action.

Australia's vast area dwarfs the Philippines, but its total population is only 7,000,000 persons; our reinforcements there may be considerable, but still far short of the necessary army to take the offensive; Japan now has bases nearby and unbroken supply lines to the home front. Anything that MacArthur can do more than beating the Japs off the vital beach-heads of Australia will be as great a miracle as he performed on Bataan.

NOT since the Supreme Court reorganization fight have congressmen received so much irate mail as is now pouring in demanding that organized labor and management be brought into line on the war effort. Much of it starts off with: "I have a son in the armed forces. He earns $21 or $30 or something) a month. He is willing to give his life, etc." That's the kind of mail that congressmen don't ignore—especially just before election.

IT'S a safe bet that the war hasn't brought forth anything that will be so welcome as the War Production board's order that cutaways, full dress suits, and double-breasted tuxes are out for the duration. Lives there a man who won't be willing to struggle along without trouser cuffs, patch pockets, two-pants suits, and a vest for his double-breasted, as long as he doesn't have to wear tails and cutaways?

Incidentally, the WPB figures their new restrictions on men's outer apparel will make possible the production of 26 per cent more suits and 10 per cent more overcoats. Turning it around that's what the saving in cloth will amount to.

Some idea of what wartime Washington is like may be gleaned from digesting the simple figure that 32 government cafeterias and eight lunch counters now are serving about 2,500,000 meals a month, or approximately 100,000 each working day. That's nearly twice what the government cafeterias served last year.

When the cafeterias are opened in the new war department building across the Potomac in Arlington this fall, Uncle Sam will operate the biggest eating place in the world under one roof. There will be 28 serving lines, with accommodations in each for handling more than 1,000 persons at a meal.

A Farmer's Diary

A Plowman

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THE FARMER living west plows today. High on the slope his dark bay team walks laboredly along. With the lines about his shoulders, and beneath one arm, he steps uncertainly in the narrow furrow. His broad rough hands grip firmly the handles of the plow. An unsuspected stone turns the share from its course. The plowman stops the team, pulls back the plow and starts once more . . . a traditional habit of farmers that gives me a quick sense of satisfaction.

I watch the team, the plow and the man turn eastward. The furrow slice moves to the left and lays over in its place like something animated. A great long continuous slice of earth, molded by the strong steel, unwinds and shines in the warm spring sun.

The horses' feet and the farmer's heavy shoes are loaded with sticky, clinging earth. The uneven fringes of his overalls at the heels behind, are thickly woven with the clay and make a sound at each step. Even from where I stand above the dull thud of the horses' step I can hear the thick turf ripped apart by the jointer moving just ahead, while immediately behind and far beneath, the wedge-shaped plow follows closely.

Beneath my feet, the plow has almost evenly divided the dark top soil from the yellow clay. This land has plainly been plowed at about the same depth each year. As I stoop and look along the even bottom of the furrow, myriad tiny rootlets show, white and gray, like fragile mold. Burrows of fishing worms are open everywhere. White grubs fattened in the fertile soil, creep slowly into hiding; dark rusty cocoons fit into larger openings.

Behind me, a flock of blackbirds with iridescent necks walk boldly, crow-like, scratch in the moist earth and greedily gulp down their feast. A hawk, perched on a tall fence post, calls shrilly.

A killdeer circles near and cries. The naked trees on the hill roar heavily in a sudden gust. The sky is very blue between the ever-changing rifts of cloud. Sunshine and shadow race across the hills and valleys.

My neighbor's weathered face is shaded by his old felt hat. His shoulders stoop, his step is not as springy as it used to be. His plodding team and he keep steadily on, though the sun is nearly down. Tomorrow, early, he will start again. He does not think of wages or length of hours — the farm is his, and he has a job to do.

CHAPTER IX

"You're a cynical old sinner, Colonel."

"Not cynical, ma'am, just a sinner. Had a happy career at it, too." He laughed and hobbled up the steps.

"Don't pay any attention to what Colonel Skeffington says, Parris. He's a good man, a very good man. I wish there were more like him."

Tom Carr moved into the overseer's cottage the following week. Parris went down to watch the men unload the household stuff. Mr. Carr was the most extraordinary-looking apparition Parris had ever seen. A cyclone of snow-white hair and whiskers enveloped his massive head. Only his eyes showed—the brownest, merriest, kindest eyes imaginable.

Mr. Carr was so lively and said so many funny things that Parris laughed. He realized he hadn't laughed much in a long time.

The last thing taken from the wagon was an old square piano with an extremely scarred and battered case.

"Oh, you've got a piano!" Parris exclaimed. "Do you play?"

"No, my wife plays. It was her piano when she was a girl. I brought it out from the East with us. Years ago." He added the last two words a bit sadly.

"I'll see you later, Sonny; you must come down often and play for Lucy. She's always been a great lover of music."

Parris grinned. Decidedly Mr. Carr was a very different sort of person from Even Gyllinson. The thought of Sven made him "go goose flesh" all over. His eyes filled with tears, but he dashed them away. He wondered where Renee was and what she was doing this very minute. There was such a lump in his throat that he could hardly breathe.

It was nearly dark when Tom Carr's horse and cart came in sight again, creaking and creeping along the sandy road. In it was the fattest woman Parris had ever seen. The cart sagged on one side until the springs buckled.

Lucy Carr wore a dress trimmed with many colors. Innumerable strings of beads lay about her neck, and many cheap rings shone person from Sven Gyllinson. The deformed-looking, helpless little hands—so tiny that they seemed like doll hands attached to her enormous arms. She wore a large round hat perched precariously on a lopsided bunch of false curls.

The cart rolled into the back yard. Tom Carr hopped out gaily, detached a little ladder, and set it close to the wheel. "Now, then, sweetheart, here we are. Give me your hands. Upsadaisy!"

Lucy wheezed noisily. She said "Ha!" once or twice, and then "Ho! Ho! Ho!"

"Lucy, my love, this is Mrs. von Eln's grandson. Name's Sonny."

All at once Lucy became very gay. She took a tottering step forward and held out her hand. She nodded her head with a certain graciousness.

She leaned so heavily on Tom Carr that he almost carried her. At the door she turned her ponderous weight slowly. She gasped out some words. "Glad, Sonny, glad."

Tom Carr had proved to be a valuable man. Madame was delighted. Parris went to see the Carrs two or three times a week. Lucy always made him play for her. Sometimes she struggled to the piano and played for him. Her little hands flew back and forth across the keys in obedience to some automatic memory. The sounds were as mad as Lucy Carr herself.

Mr. Carr talked once or twice of Lucy to Madame von Eln. "She was a pretty girl, Mrs. von Eln, and a happy girl. A proud girl, too. When we ran out of money it seemed she just couldn't stand the snubs she got here in Kings Row. She just went out of her head. Then she was happy. I made up my mind she should stay happy. You know, she's like a child. I had to put rockers under her bed—like a cradle. Every night of the world I sing to her and rock her to sleep."

Madame von Eln stared.

"Lucy likes your boy, Mrs. von Eln. I've never seen her take to anyone so before."

Madame shook her head sadly as she watched the white-headed old man trudging home. She passed her fingers slowly across her eyes.

A strange friendship sprang up between Lucy Carr and Parris. It had begun a few days after the Carrs arrived. Old Tom saw Parris and hailed him.

"Hey, Sonny!"

"Yes, sir."

"Are you busy right now?"

"No, sir."

"Well, Lucy's been askin about you. Wants to see you."

"Me?"

"Yep. Took a fancy to you right off. Tell you what you do. Go down and see her. Let her talk to you for a little while. She gets pretty lonesome, you know. Don't be afraid, son, she won't hurt you. Wouldn't hurt a fly—my Lucy wouldn't. Likes to talk, though."

The mind of Lucy Carr was like something flying in dizzy circles. It darted in and out of the darkness that encompassed her, that pressed always closer as though waiting to engulf her. Parris felt sometimes that if he could only seize her flickering attention and fasten it down, she would suddenly become herself. But that bright spot of lucidity and sanity was now here, now there, hovering for a moment and then gone from sight.

Her helplessness appealed to his sympathy. He aided in many small ways, but most of all he talked. He discovered the kind of news that interested her and learned to tell it bit by bit. She could not follow a long story.

"I used to take Lucy to the circus," Tom Carr told Madame one day in late spring. "If you don't mind, I'll take tomorrow off, ma'am. I thought maybe she'd enjoy it again. It's been years since she's been to town."

When Parris and his grandmother returned that afternoon, they saw Tom's cart before the cottage. He asked to have Uncle Henry fetch the doctor. They had been mistaken, he explained, for part of the parade. He had brought Lucy home and put her to bed.

"Excitement," said Dr. Gordon, giving Lucy a sleeping powder.

Later Parris went down to the little house and tiptoed into the front room. Lucy Carr lay on the bed and Tom was rocking her gently, crooning in his deep bass voice.

Lucy saw him. "Look, honey, it's Sonny. Glad, Sonny."

Parris sat down on the edge of a chair and waited. She closed her eyes and slept for a while. Her breathing was louder than he had ever heard it, though she always struggled to get air. From time to time a loud strangled breath came and went roughly. It sounded like the turn of a rusty wheel.

"Is she better?" he asked.

"Yes—much better."

Lucy opened her eyes after a while. They seemed to roll loosely in her head. "Sonny, play," she gasped.

Parris sat down and began to play. The weird sounds jingled and cracked under his fingers.

He played on and on. He heard her breath come more and more slowly, but he thought the awful cranking sound was more frequent.

The afternoon light faded, and the still spring twilight came on gradually. Still Parris played on and on. He thought Lucy must be falling asleep. He could scarcely hear her. The insane witches' music that came from the piano was beginning to make his head ache. The creak of the rockers on the floor slowed and stopped.

Tom Carr laid a hand on his shoulder. "That will do now. Thank you, Sonny."

"Is she asleep, Mr. Carr?"

Tom Carr shook his head. "She's dead. Will you tell your grandmother, please? And—thank you again, Sonny."

The death of Lucy Carr made Parris think about God more definitely than he ever had before. It seemed to him if there was a God, who looked after everything and everybody, that events were strangely ordered. Things didn't seem right—or fair. He thought about Renee and the memory was stony hard in his breast. That wasn't right, or fair, either. He was bitterly resentful.

He brushed his hand across his eyes with a gesture he had borrowed from his grandmother. It was not a childish gesture.

Benny Singer was happy. Whenever he went to town on errands for Tom Carr, he went without shrinking from encounters with his old tormentors.

"Hey, Benny! Look, kids, here's old crazy Benny!"

He didn't mind being called "crazy Benny." Not now. He laughed and shouted and waved greetings. Anything that anybody said seemed kind and jovial. He had a job. He worked for Madame, and Tom Carr was his friend. There was not a cloud in Benny's sky.

"He has a way with growing things, ma'am," Tom reported. "He understands them, and I declare I believe his plants know him."

Old Tom almost winked at Madame von Eln. "He talks to them, you know."

Sometimes Parris followed Tom and Benny as they went about the varied work of the nursery.

Tom's talk was interesting most times, and there was something about Benny that touched him a little. It was exactly the way he had been touched by Lucy Carr.

Parris remembered how he used to feel that Lucy's mind darted here and there with no seeming attachment to anything. Benny's mind didn't do that. No; Benny's mind sort of—well, sort of staggered . . . the way a chicken staggers and tried to run, after its head is cut off.

Once or twice Tom Carr talked to Parris about Benny. "He's a little like Lucy, sometimes. You know, Sonny, people that are a little off that way are just like a string of beads that's come undone. The beads roll around any which-a-way. If there was some way of getting them on the string again, they'd be all right. Doctors do some right wonderful things when it comes to cutting people open and sewing them up again, but they're not so far along with people's brains."

Parris had heard Tom say all of this so many times.

"You know what I'd do if I was you?" The old man's sharp eyes shadowed with the gravity of his feelings. "I'd study that if I was you."

"Be a doctor for—for—" He didn't like to say "crazy people" to Tom.

"Yes, sir, Sonny, for crazy people. May be that nobody's found out much about it yet, but it seems to me it would be a grand thing to study. People like Benny and—like Lucy. Not real crazy, you know Sonny, just off a little. If there was just some way of holding them together again. . ."

Parris was pretty sure now that he would like to be a doctor. But he thought he'd rather drive two fiery bay horses like Dr. Gordon and go around saving people's lives. Suddenly he recalled that day Dr. Gordon operated on Willy Macintosh's father. He remembered the terrible yells that came from that upper window, and Willy's wild face as he tugged at the front door and cried, "I'll kill him, I'll kill him!" Perspiration wet his upper lip as he thought of it.

It seemed that everybody talked to him about what he would do when he grew up. Goodness, he thought, I like to look at things; I like to look at everything, but I can't think of anything else in the whole world I really like to do.

He realized that he loved this place—this, right here, the ground, the crisscross pattern the wiry grass made, the shiny red stems of vines, the dusky blue coat on winterberries. It was familiar and comfortable. He sighed happily—his own place in the world!

But even in that instant a small unease returned. He knew what the feeling was, and what it came from. Other boys had parents who were not so old as his grandmother. They had brothers and sisters and relatives. He had only his grandmother. What would happen when — when —? He couldn't say the word even to himself. Then—all of this would be gone somehow. Where would he go?

Upstairs, Anna and another maid stood looking down at the three. Anna shook her head. "When a body sends for a doctor and a lawyer at the same time—" She left off.

Anna began to cry silently. "She looks worse every day. Nobody else notices because she's so quick and bright about everything, but I notice."

The younger maid turned and peered through the curtain.

"You see, Colonel," Madame was saying. "I must be sure that I arrange everything. The boy has no one—no one in the world but me."

Colonel Skeffington folded and unfolded his gold-rimmed glasses.

"Yes, yes. Of course. You know, Madame, if anything should happen to you—unexpectedly—"

"It wouldn't be unexpected, now, Isaac."

"Well, well, now. What I was going to say is this: if—if your grandson finds himself alone, he can come to me any time, for as long as he wants to. Fine boy he is. Rather make a lawyer of him, though, than a doctor." He slapped Dr. Gordon on the knee, but he did not smile.

"Thank you, Isaac. I know your generous heart. I—I think Parris leans to medicine as much as to anything—except, maybe music."

"Music!" The Colonel dismissed that. This time Dr. Gordon laughed a little with his habitual quick intake of breath.

Madame nodded. "I don't take that inclination seriously, Isaac. I have him study because I think it will keep him from being lonely sometime, maybe."

Colonel Skeffington looked hard at her. "I have to be blunt, Marie. How much time do you think you have?"

COLUMBUS GIRL BRIDE OF L. M. ROBINSON

Announcement Made of Marriage Solemnized In Columbus On Feb. 7; Couple Reside In That City.

ANNOUNCEMENT is being made today of the marriage of Miss Audrey Jane Lytle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett A. Lytle, 795 Yearling road, Columbus, and Lawrence M. Robinson of Columbus, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob M. Robinson of Mansfield.

The wedding took place on Feb. 7 in the Wilson avenue Church of Christ at Columbus. Rev. C. L. Johnson performed the ceremony at 3:30 p. m. before an altar of palms. Two seven-branch candelabra completed the decorations. The service was preceded by a program of organ music played by Miss Theresa Oakley. Selections were "I Love You Truly" and "Liebestraum."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a powder blue street-length jacket dress and small, matching off-the-face hat with veil in the same shade. She carried a crescent of deep red shattered carnations.

Mrs. Don Cooperrider, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor for the former Miss Lytle. She was attired in a beige street-length dress. Her small, off-the-face hat was brown and she carried a crescent of peach shattered carnations.

Mr. Cooperrider served as best man for Mr. Robinson.

A graduate of Reynoldsburg high school, the bride attended Office Training school in Columbus. Mr. Robinson was graduated from Bellville high school in 1936 and attended Ohio State university. Both Mr. and Mrs. Robinson are employed by the Curtiss-Wright Corporation.

All Phases Of Gardening To Be Studied By Club

From the first meeting of the season, which was held on March 27, to the concluding session on Oct. 9, the programs planned for the Astowela Garden club will be interesting as well as informative.

At the next meeting, on April 10, Mrs. Paul McConnell will tell the group about "Color Schemes and Succession of Bloom." Hostesses will be Miss Carolyn Walter and Mrs. H. N. Keene who will entertain at the home of the former.

Mrs. W. T. Marquis will discuss "Planning and Planting the Small Garden" at the home of Mrs. W. L. Althouse on April 24. Associate hostess will be Mrs. P. J. Kelley. Mrs. H. G. Balyeat's subject at the meeting on May 8 will be "Tasty Tidbits." Mrs. L. A. Ott will entertain. She will be assisted by Mrs. W. G. Black.

The home of Mrs. Marquis will be the scene of a meeting on May 22. Mrs. John H. Finefrock will be associate hostess and Mrs. Dean Rex will give a paper on "My Defense Garden." Roll call response will be entitled "Do You Know?"

When Mrs. C. A. Hines is hostess and Mrs. McConnell is associate hostess to the club on June 5, Mrs. L. W. Birch will speak on a selected subject. A sealed program will be presented by Mrs. York Dirlam at the meeting which will be held at her home on June 19. Mrs. D. C. Lavender will be associate hostess.

Hostesses for the July 3 meeting will be Mrs. W. J. Spreng, Mrs. Balyeat and Mrs. Neil Remy. The latter will present a "Flower and Garden Quiz." "Herbs and Herb Gardening" will be described by Mrs. Kelly when the club meets on July 17 with Mrs. Emerson Weller and Mrs. R. L. Walker as hostesses.

On July 31, the club will learn about "Annuals to Be Shown In Autumn." That will be the subject of a paper to be given by Mrs. Walker when Mrs. A. L. Price and Mrs. A. R. Perl entertain. "Lilies for Ohio Gardens" is the subject assigned to Mrs. C. H. Hughes for the program to be presented on Aug. 14. Mrs. C. V. McConnell and Mrs. C. L. Willsey will be hostesses. Flower arrangements will be made at the meeting on Aug. 28, when the club is entertained by Mrs. Richard Fensch and Mrs. G. E. Holland.

"Window Gardening" will be the topic when Mrs. Price is speaker at the Sept. 11 meeting. Mrs. Hughes will be hostess and Mrs. F. W. Cummins will be associate hostess. On Sept. 25 the club is scheduled to talk a field trip to Mrs. H. H. Shaw's cabin. Mrs. M. E. Geipel will be associate hostess. At the final meeting, on Oct. 9, the program will consist of a book review by Mrs. Holland. Mrs. Birch and Mrs. Rex will be hostesses for the day.

Vows Exchanged In Sept., 1941 Announced Today

Mrs. Katherine Haberbuchler, 324 Fourth avenue, announces the marriage of her daughter, Emily, to Robert L. Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Taylor, South Main street road. Vows were exchanged by the couple at 2 p. m. on Sept. 19, 1941. Rev. Wallace performed the ceremony in the Presbyterian church at Chicago, Ill.

For her wedding, the former Miss Haberbuchler was attired in a soldier blue street length dress with matching hat and navy blue accessories. She wore a shoulder corsage of pink roses.

Attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Van Hagey of Chicago. Mrs. Van Hagey wore a navy blue dress with matching accessories. Her corsage was of yellow roses.

Mrs. Taylor is a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school. She is employed by the Reindl Spring and Alignment Service. Mr. Taylor was graduated from Madison high school and prior to his induction into the army in January, was associated with the Crawford Finance, Inc. He is stationed at Fort Sill, Okla.

Dearnery Meeting Held On Sunday At McCarthys'

Members of Mansfield Deanery of the Toledo Diocesan Council of Catholic Nurses were entertained Sunday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Mary McCarthy, 29 Stewart avenue. Miss Anne Houck, diocesan president, and Miss Margaret Nopper, treasurer, both of Toledo, were guests at the session.

Miss Houck gave an interesting talk on the objectives of the organization. Msgr. R. C. Goebel, a guest at the session, spoke briefly on "The Spirit of Charity in the Care of the Sick." Luncheon was served buffet style from a long table decorated with spring appointments. Mrs. Nova Mayer assisted Mrs. McCarthy during the luncheon.

Collarless Jacket

The "Little Suit," one of the pets of the spring collections. This one, designed by Sophie, has boxy collarless jacket and pleated skirt of navy wool, with gay red and white print blouse. Cuffs and handkerchief repeat the bright print of the light-hearted blouse.

Wed In Columbus Church

MR. AND MRS. L. M. ROBINSON

The marriage of Miss Audrey Jane Lytle and Lawrence M. Robinson, both of Columbus, was an event of Feb. 7. Announcement of the wedding is being made today by the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Everett A. Lytle, 795 Yearling road, Columbus. Mr. and Mrs. Jacob M. Robinson of Mansfield are parents of the bridegroom. Rev. C. L. Johnson officiated for the ceremony which took place in the Wilson avenue Church of Christ at Columbus. Attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Don Cooperrider of that city, brother-in-law and sister of the bridegroom. Both Mr. and Mrs. Robinson are employed by the Curtiss-Wright Corporation in Columbus.

Flamingo Red

Here's the first of the charming young evening gowns in flamingo red, worn by Michele Morgan, attractive French actress who makes her Hollywood debut in RKO Radio's production, "Joan of Paris." Joan loves the color of this frock, is intrigued by its school girl middy of the flamingo red with a curved shoulder yoke of white. Embroidered to the middy, a pair of tropic fish made of black and white sequins. The long, slim skirt, with its narrow pleats widening slightly at the hemline, adds height.

HERE AND THERE

ROBERT PRESTON, a student at Cornell university in New York, has been initiated into Chi Phi fraternity and is treasurer of the pledge class. Miss Kathleen Preston, a sophomore at the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, Mich., will spend Easter week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Preston, Woodhill road, who are also the parents of Robert Preston. Mr. and Mrs. Corliss W. Kellar of Dayton have been visiting Mr. Kellar's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Kellar, South Main street.

* * * * *

Rev. Iva Wallick and daughter-in-law, Mrs. Gerald Wallick, have returned from a two week visit with their son and husband, Gerald Wallick, who is stationed at Fort Sill, Oklahoma. Don't Forget The Stamp, Soldier

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Fully two months ago I heard that a bill had been introduced in the House of Representatives to get free mailing privileges for enlisted men. Committees in both the House and Senate are said to studying the question. What's happened to this free postage? Are the gentlemen on the Hill still studying it?

Soldier.

They're still studying it, was the reply to my inquiry at the War Department this morning. If you want her to get your letter, better fall back on the reliable three-cent stamp.

There is a regulation which permits soldiers, sailors and marines to send mail without stamps, postage to be collected on delivery. Better not try it. Such a letter has to be especially endorsed and signed by the proper commissioned officer and much red tape would have to be wound and unwould to start the letter on its way. I suggest you stick to stamps.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

In our good old silly way I read in the papers that conversations and discussions are under way whether they will call a proposed street in Washington, to be named after General MacArthur, a Road or a Boulevard.

As I write, his men are standing up against frightful odds out here, my son among them. What does he or his men care about streets or boulevards? What they need is planes, reinforcements, supplies, not street names. It's too horribly reminiscent of Matthew's, "What man is there among you, whom if his son ask bread, will he give him a stone?"

Soldier's Mother.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am enclosing a clipping which states that Dr. V. Howard Pillsbury, president of the American Association of School Administrators, says that educators throughout the country will be asked to endorse a proposal for lowering the minimum draft age to 17 years. Apparently he's opposed to boys finishing even their high school training. He said wartime calls for the abandonment of the "education as usual" policy.

Boy's Mother.

Picked college students considerably older than 17 years, inducted in to the Marine Corps, are permitted to finish their college education. The abandonment of "education as usual" will find little favor, I imagine, with the majority of parents who realize that when the war is over, boys will need every bit of available education to help support themselves or their families.

High Style Fashions, Fancy Work

By MARIAN MARTIN

Here's fashion news in softer shoulders, the lowered waist seam, and a gracefully flared skirt. A slip-through bow is added for extra charm—it may be ribbon or of contrast fabric. You might even make a whole skirt of contrast to match the bow. For all-season wear, do choose a pretty print in semi-sheer crepe!

Pattern 9024 may be ordered only in misses and women's sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 requires 3¼ yards 39-inch fabric.

Send 15 cents (plus one cent to cover cost of mailing) for this Marian Martin Pattern. Be sure to write plainly your Size, Name, Address and Style Number.

Send your order to The Mansfield News-Journal, Pattern Department, 232 W. 18th St., New York, N. Y.

Foods That Help Save Sugar

By BETSY NEWMAN

"We are today a nation in arms, and we must fight and farm, mine and manufacture, conserve food and fuel, save and spend, to the one common purpose," said Woodrow Wilson, during the first World war. It is just as true today, and as the saving of sugar is the theme of this week's menus let us consider other foods that help us to use less sugar. Prunes may be cooked entirely without additional sugar. Raisins, currants, figs, and dates are other sweet dried fruits that help out our sugar supply.

Today's Menu.

Pork Chops Mashed Turnips
Apple-Celery- Cabbage Salad
Riced Potatoes Crunchy Whip or
Spiced Fruit Whip
Tea or Coffee

Crunchy Whip

1 cup raisins or cooked dried figs
½ cup orange jucie
¾ teaspoon grated orange rind
⅓ cup sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons plain gelatin
1 tablespoon cold water
1 cup whipping cream
1 egg
2 cups crumbled graham crackers

If raisins are used, cover with boiling water 5 minutes and drain, or slice dried figs after stems are clipped. Combine fruit with orange juice, orange rind, sugar and salt, and heat to boiling. Moisten gelatin in cold water, add to hot mixture and stir to dissolve; cool. Whip cream stiff, beat egg thick and creamy and combine cooled fruit mixture, whipped cream, beaten egg and graham crackers, and blend lightly but thoroughly. Chill but do not freeze. Serve 6.

Spiced Fruit Whip.

1 cup sweetened, cooked, dried fruit
1 cup liquid from fruit
1 tablespoon cornstarch
¼ cup sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
1 tablespoon plain gelatin
3 tablespoons cold water
1 cup whipping cream
Few grain salt

Cut fruit into small pieces, add liquid, cornstarch, spice, sugar and salt; blend thoroughly and bring to a boil. Cook and stir until thick and cornstarch is cooked. Remove from heat and add gelatin that has been moistened in cold water, and stir to dissolve. Chill until thick but not firm. Whip cream thick but not stiff; whip cooled fruit mixture into cream, a small portion at a time, and chill. When serving top with soft custard or sweetened whipped cream. Serves 6.

PATENT FOR SPRING

Matching shoes and handbag has caused many a headache and aching feet. If you must have perfection in color matches, choose black patent leather. It goes with almost any color—even brown. If your feet require expensive shoes, you can save in buying a less expensive bag.

An extra hint: There are snappy little sailors in black patent leather too, trimmed with gay posies.

PATTY SHELLS

Make up extra crust into patty shells when pie-making. Bake and when meal time comes the shells can be filled with fresh or canned fruits, prune or apricot whip, leftover frozen or gelatin dessert. The baked shells will keep a week stored in refrigerator and can be reheated 5 minutes in moderate oven when used.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"Why, yes, there is a patch," Jim Watson said. "Old Diswell has a perennial garden at the back of his house that's the pride of his heart. If you'll just come this way I'll show you. Look out for those maple limbs; they're kind of low. I'll hold them back for you."

"I can do that," Gus said quickly, stepping forward. "If you'll go ahead and show the way, I'll take care of Missis Graham, and we won't waste any time."

"Bill, you come with me and Mr. Watson here," he said, "and Joe, you stay with Mr. Branchman near the cars. But if you hear that one long whistle, you come a running with your guns ready."

"Okay," Joe answered, and Mr. Branchman added with emphasis, "We'll be there, and ready."

"Then we'll start," Gus decided. His voice was muted to the low tones all of the men had used.

Jim Watson thrust aside a low-hanging maple branch—even in the stress of the moment I could not help noting the beauty of the tree in its first spring dress—and strode forward.

I would have liked to linger by the edge of the mountain brook, and felt the impulse to loiter. But though my eyes were busy I did not slacken my pace, following Gus and Watson until they came out upon an open rectangle of green sward.

"If we go any further," Watson said, halting while we were still in the shelter of the tall bushes, "we can be seen from the house."

"Then you and Bill stay here," Gus decided. "Where's the door?"

"Oh, I see it. Come, Misses Graham; we better go on now."

"Very well, I'm coming," I said, but I had difficulty in getting the words out intelligibly. I knew that it was only my imagination "working overtime," as Dicky so often says to tease me, but the soft spring breeze blowing through the trees seemed suddenly chill and sinister.

I tried to tell myself that the gangsters in the other armored car could not possibly have arrived before us, yet I had a vague but strong feeling that the very air was full of menace.

I was thankful indeed that Gus could not see my face because of his watchfulness of the terrain around the house. And then we crossed a driveway and stood before an ancient halved door with a knocker, also belonging to another century, attached to it.

I put my hand to sound the knocker, but lowered it again as a raucous voice demanded from behind us.

"Say, you! What do you want, and how did you get in here?"

HOROSCOPE

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, March 31.

Exceptionally propitious augtries are found in this day's sidereal pattern. There is forecast of a radical, sudden and probably dramatic upheaval or change, which may not only have far reaching and profound effect on the life but give solidity, cohesion and enduring stability to the fortunes and the futures. Perhaps strangers as well as old friends, relatives, elders or old-established institutions may hold conspicuous influence in this. There should be a relief from static affairs, with an increase and security in real possession is perhaps trusts.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of thrilling, and dynamic as well as radical moves, changes, associations and objectives, which will dramatize and give point to the future destinies, as well as give solid growth, security and endurance to the fortunes, progress and personal felicity. Romance and adventure as well as stabilization of the possessions, investments and position and prestige are presaged. There may be surprising benefits from elders, relatives or old institutions.

A child born on this day should have unusual talents, with much originality, ingenuity and skill sustained by sincerity, depth and sound judgment and purpose.

THEATERS

Technicolor Romance.

Madeleine Carroll and Sterling Hayden bring a picture of love in the tropics to the Ohio screen in "Bahama Passage," the story of a worldly wise young woman and a naive young man. Filmed in technicolor the picture presents Hayden as the owner of a salt-producing island in the West Indies inhabited almost solely by blacks. Hayden meets up with the girl when a new overseer arrives accompanied by his daughter. Flora Robson, Cecil Kellaway and Mary Anderson are in the cast.

Horror Bill.

The story of a mad doctor who believes he can bring people back to life is told with spine-tingling thrills in "The Mad Doctor of Market Street," co-feature on the Madison's double horror-bill program. Lionel Atwill plays the doctor who attempts to try out his theories after a shipwreck. Una Merkel and Richard Davis are others in the cast. "The Wolf Man," the second attraction, features Lon Chaney, jr., in a Welsh setting. Patric Knowles and Evelyn Ankers are featured.

"Johnny Eager," with Robert Taylor and Lana Turner in the leads continues at the Ritz. Humphrey Bogart's "The Maltese Falcon," is the second attraction.

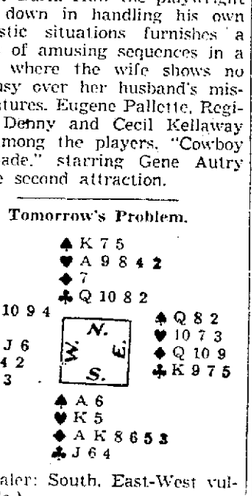
Gay Comedy.

A woman careerist and a philandering playwright cast their lots together in "Appointment For Love," the Charles Boyer-Margaret Sullivan co-starring vehicle at the Park. How the playwright bogs down in handling his own domestic situations furnishes a series of amusing sequences in a story where the wife shows no jealousy over her husband's misadventures. Eugene Pallette, Reginald Denny and Cecil Kellaway are among the players. "Cowboy Serenade," starring Gene Autry is the second attraction.

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

Can you express, in clear-cut simple terms, the reasons why declarer should establish a certain suit, immediately after the spade lead against his 3-No Trumps on this deal, instead of some other suit?

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

BY

Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

LONE HONORS VALUABLE

Unguarded kings and queens have a value at No Trump which they do not possess in suit contracts. Besides the service they render in trump declarations, of promoting lower honors to the rank of trick takers, they frequently result in stipping the run of a suit by the defenders, through constituting a stopper. This is due to the habits of opening leaders, who have learned by experience the advisability of frequently leading from high honors against No Trumpers—leads which they would not consider against suit contracts.

(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
Pass	2 ♦	Pass	3 ♣
Pass	3 ♦	Pass	3 NT

North, a keen bidder, said afterward that he would not have made a two-bid, forcing to game, on this hand if that singleton spade had been a lower card. Because of its probable value at a No Trump game, he considered that such a bid was justified, since South might have enough to make game opposite that big hand and yet still not have enough to answer a call of 1-Diamond.

It is a good thing that singleton was the queen. West led his spade J, the Q winning. After South gave up a club to the A, he won the returned spade with the A and then ran eight more tricks, taking a total of 10 and thus gaining one above his contract. Just notice what would have happened if that singleton spade had been lower. With only one spade stopper, South would have been set as soon as he lost the lead.

West could have beaten the contract by leading the spade K, but in the long run that would be losing bridge. Over the span of some dozens of No Trump contracts bid as this was, the J would prove the most profitable.

Shining Up Finger Nails

By MME. QUI VIVE

Every minute is precious these days. There is a big job to be done. The Pretty Lady who used to spend an afternoon in the beauty works is lucky if she can get her hair washed and starched into finger waves. Doing finger wav s at home is pretty much out of the question. They require the professional touch. A woman cannot be efficient if her hair looks like a pile of jackstraws or poodle wool.

She can, though, keep her finger nails in presentable condition, though we won't promise that they will carry the fine finish of professional treatment.

For equipment she will need a long, thin, fine-grained, flexible file, emery boards, curved needle point scissors, orangewood sticks, nail white, cuticle cream, nail polish and polish remover. It is wise to buy high grade tools; they last for years. A dull file is enough to drive one crazy. Scissors should be sharp.

Don't make the mistake of washing the hands first; the water will make the nails soft; they will bend during the filing.

Use the metal file first, working from sides to tip, forming a point. Then round off the point. By that means you will execute a pleasing oval outline.

It is a mistake to file far down at the sides; if you do that the newly revealed flesh will thicken, look ugly.

Run the orangewood stick under the nail eaves. Some tiny shags of the underlying surface of the eaves will be revealed; they can be removed by the emery board or beveling file, which gives smoothness to the edge.

Dip the stick in nail white, sweep it under the eaves, forming a clear outline. Whether or not you include the eaves when applying polish is your individual concern. Some do, some don't. If the nails are short it is best to tint the eaves. Makes the nails look longer.

Now for the good old soapy scouring with the nail brush. Loiter a bit over this detail, as the warm water softens the cuticle. Dry well. Apply a cream, or olive oil if you prefer. Your next job is to free the cuticle from the nail fabric.

Start at the left side of each nail, gently forcing the stick under the flesh. Continue to the base—go easy there, so there will be no pressure on the matrix—then up the other side. If you fluff up rag tags or bobtails of cuticle, snip them off with the curved scissors, holding the points away from the cave. Remember, the slightest wound may become infected, so be careful.

Another hand washing with soap to remove the oil, then a thorough rinsing and drying. Apply the polish lightly sweeping the small brush toward the tip.

The scientific name for the mocking bird, mimus polyglottos, means many-tongued mimic.

Is your child a NOSE PICKER?

It may be more than just a nasty habit! It may be a sign of worms. Yes, ugly, crawling roundworms inside your child! Other warning signs are fidgeting, "picky" appetite, crankiness, itching in certain parts. Roundworms can cause real trouble! If you even suspect your child has them, get Jayne's Vermifuge right away! Jayne's is America's best known proprietary worm medicine. Scientifically tested and used by millions for over a century. It expels stubborn worms, yet acts very gently. If no worms are there, Jayne's acts merely as a mild laxative. Be sure you get Jayne's Vermifuge.

GEN. JOHNSON:

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON — Much argument is going on about an "excess profits" tax in the new tax bill. This goes back to our tax plan in the World war and the slogan "take the profits out of war" preached by D. M. Baruch continuously after the Armistice.

It was an unfortunate slogan. People who don't believe in our profits system seized upon it to mean not, as was intended "take the profits due to government spending for war," or to say it another way, "as soon as war comes, abandon our capitalist system and go to Nazism, Fascism, or Communism."

Gen. Johnson

Since our whole economy has been built upon the profits system, it seems a little wacky to can it and adopt an experiment, just when we need to have the old system working at its best.

People who have so misread the original slogan pitch their argument on a slightly different key. They don't exactly say "in war take all profits," but they do say "take as excess profits all net earnings in excess of say 6 per cent on the investment."

Now some of this springs from ignorance. Percentage of profit on the investment is by no means a rule of general application to measure the prosperity of different enterprises any more than is the percentage of profit on separate contracts. A man may make 8 per cent on a contract to build a battleship, but if, in prudent management and experience, it takes two years to build a battleship that is only 4 per cent per annum, which is unreasonably low for the risky business of construction.

Or on the other hand, there are many enterprises where good will, trade names and high professional reputation are much more effective in making money than investment in bricks and mortar. Such a company may have very little fixed investment, but because of its "turn-over" (or the number of jobs it finishes per year) a rapid normal 100 per cent on investment is not an excess profit.

Thus far, in blundering around to find a rule to determine the "excess" in profits, we have tried only some rule to say that any profit on investment in excess of a three-years average experience, or in excess of say 6 per cent on investment, must be "excess due to war."

"For all the reasons just given and several others which there is not room here to discuss, that is, more often than not, a rule without reason, which is full of possible injustice.

Usually the best way to measure the performance of a company or its stock is the way we measure it in normal practice. The vital question is:

"Regardless of its investment in bricks, mortar and what-nots, how much does it earn per year per share for its stock holders?"

If, during war, those earnings rise sharply, and there is no other obvious explanation having nothing to do with war, then we are dealing with an excess of profit due to war and it (the excess) ought to be taxed 100 per cent if we are to take or "tax the profits out of war."

It by no means follows from that rule that these are all the federal taxes to be assessed and paid. In addition to taxes taking excess war profits, other taxes should be assessed up to the limits laid by the "law of diminishing returns"—in other words, up to the point where the rate of taxes on profits is so great that the average man will not dare to risk money to make money, because the risk of loss is too great or the promise of profits is too small.

After you reach that point, the heavier the rate of taxation the lower the return in revenue. That is a rule of invariable experience and application since the world began. We should do well to heed it now. It is money we want and not experimentation and ruin.

PIQUA SCENE OF FREIGHT TRAIN CRASH

Derail System Blamed For Pennsy Collision; Oil Cargo Destroyed.

(By United Press)

PIQUA — The loss of a derail system in a recent wreck was established unofficially today as the cause of a freight train collision at a busy Piqua railroad crossing Sunday.

A west-bound Pennsylvania freight train plowed into the side of a north-bound Baltimore and Ohio special oil train of 81 cars at the eastern limits of the city at 10:40 a. m., setting fire to 12 crude oil tank cars and turning the vicinity into an inferno of fire and smoke. Traffic was tied up for 12 hours.

There had been a minor wreck at the crossing about six weeks ago, when the derail system was thrown out of commission. Had it been operating yesterday, the Pennsylvania train would have stopped short of the tank train.

Blazing oil flowed down the road for several hundred yards and into a creek. Flames licked through gutters. The Crow Wing railroad tower was destroyed and the Baltimore and Ohio passenger and freight station burned to the ground.

More than 160,000 gallons of oil were lost. The Pennsylvania locomotive was demolished.

Engineer Quincey E. Davis, Logansport, Ind., said he saw the signal against him as he rounded a sharp curve. He applied the air brakes, set the engine in reverse, and the train was barely moving at the time of the collision.

Davis, Fireman R. D. Rearich and Brakeman Versel Leslie, of Logansport, jumped from a window a moment before it was shattered by the cars.

No estimate of the damage was given but it was one of the costliest wrecks ever in the Piqua area. About 167 trains pass the crossing daily.

Firemen from Piqua and Troy fought the blaze. Thousands gathered at the scene. The only casualty was Mrs. Myrtle Hardacre, 62, Conover, O., who suffered a knee fracture when a fire hose knocked her down.

Mansfield friends of Captain Robert Springer were surprised to see a photograph of him in Sunday's edition of The News-Journal incorrectly identified as that of Dale Stevens of Mansfield. The News-Journal takes this means of correcting the identification. Captain and Mrs. Springer left Mansfield yesterday after a brief visit with their four-year-old son, Ronnie, who is staying in the city; and with Mrs. Bess Springer, Captain Springer's mother, and Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Eby, Mrs. Springer's parents. Captain Springer, a former National Guard officer, has been in active service since October, 1939.

It was with mingled anger and sorrow that Robert Lewis, 148 Pleasant street, a News-Journal carrier boy, buried a dog yesterday morning in the back yard at his home. Robert and his helper, James Meeding, 132 Pleasant street, found the dead animal near North Adams and Sixth street yesterday morning while they were delivering papers. They returned later for the dog. Robert said the animal was so thin it must have starved to death, and he couldn't see why a thing like that had to happen in the city when normal people "waste enough food to feed homeless animals."

If the rationing program goes any further, Mansfield's parking meters will probably be put to use as hitching posts. One cyclist who works downtown has already adopted the meter posts for this purpose. Every morning he dismounts from his bicycle on North Main street, brings out a long chain and fastens the bike to a parking meter pole, padlocking it to insure against theft. Mansfield police are puzzling over whether this should call for the deposit of a coin in the meter or not.

An item in Friday's News-Journal about a search being conducted for heirs of the late William P. Weiant to claim his $5,000 estate in Florida had brought a number of replies today. Probate Judge Stuart H. Cramer said he had been receiving telephone calls and letters from Richland countians who are certain they can prove Mr. Weiant was a relative of theirs. Others offered to help find his heirs in Mansfield. The court was asked to check its records for the date of Mr. Weiant's birth and to provide information about relatives. The Florida property will be turned over to the State of Florida unless the rightful heirs are found.

SCRAP OVER REQUEST FOR FUNDS SEEN

Committee Chairman Asserts 35 Officials Have Red Front Affiliations.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Vice President Henry A. Wallace's comparison of Rep. Martin Dies, D., Tex., with Nazi propaganda chief Joseph Goebbels suggested today a vigorous fight in the house soon when Dies' committee on un-American activities seeks funds to continue its investigation.

Dies provoked Wallace's statement by sending him a letter charging that 35 officials of the board of economic warfare had Communist front affiliations. Wallace is chairman of the BEW.

Wallace replied that such statements from Dies and "others of his kind with an intense itch for publicity" might as well come from Goebbels. The effect on morale would be less damaging, he said, "if Mr. Dies were on the Hitler payroll."

Dies answered from his Jasper, Tex., home with the statement that he would "not be silenced by any attempt to impugn my motives."

"Mr. Wallace accuses me of smearing, yet he attempts to smear me by impugning my patriotism," Dies said.

Dies' committee recently was voted authorization by the house to continue for another year. But no funds have been voted yet and Dies is seeking $500,000. Extension of the committee was vigorously contested by Dies' opponents, but the final vote was overwhelmingly in his favor.

Wallace's attack, the most outspoken by a high administration official in a long time, is expected to keynote a campaign against a Dies appropriation.

Wallace accused Dies of seeking to "inflame the public mind by a malicious distortion of facts."

"If we were at peace," he said, "these tactics could be overlooked as the product of a witch-craft mind. We are not at peace, however. We are at war...

"These are the most critical times in our history....It is the solemn duty of all patriotic citizens to fight the enemy within our gates who hide under many cloaks, the most insidious of which is a false patriotism.

"Any man who seeks to undermine faith in our government by a malicious misuse of facts is a greater danger to our national safety than thousands of Axis soldiers within our borders. Hitler and the Japs know that better than anyone else.

"I trust that Mr. Dies and others of his kind with an intense itch for publicity will use their talents to help the United Nations win this war, rather than stir up discord among patriotic Americans."

Dies, in his letter to Wallace, called for immediate resignation or dismissal of the BEW officials whom he said were affiliated with Communst organizations.

TRAFFIC TOLL SHOWS DECLINE

Council Reports Nation's Auto Deaths Decrease Eight Per Cent.

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO—America's climbing total of traffic deaths was checked last month for the first time since July, 1940, the National Safety council reported today.

The February toll was 2,380 as compared with 2,590 in the same month of 1941. The drop was 8 per cent and ended 18 months of continuous increase.

Since only fragmentary reports on February mileage were available, the council was unable to determine what part any decrease in travel due to rationing of cars and tires might have played in reducing fatalities.

If February travel did fall in proportion to the reduction in deaths, the council pointed out, it was a sharp decrease, because mileage was up 16 per cent in December and 10 per cent in January.

The council warned against any feeling of complacency on the part of the motoring public or a belief that rationing would automatically bring further reductions. "We cannot overlook the facts that 5,490 persons were killed in traffic in the first two months of the year—only one per cent fewer than in the corresponding period of record-breaking of 1941," said Col. John Stilwell, council president.

DEATH CLAIMS MRS. WALTERS

Bellville Resident for 50 Years Dies at Home.

BELLVILLE — Mrs. Zoa Walters, 70, died at her home here early yesterday after being an invalid for 38 years. Mrs. Walters was born in Morrow county but resided in Bellville for the past 50 years.

She was a member of the Bellville Methodist church. Survivors are her husband, Frank Walters; two daughters, Mrs. George Oyster and Mrs. Charles Fike of Bellville; a son, E. K. Walters of Fredericktown; and two grandchildren.

Friends may visit the home until Tuesday noon. Private funeral services will be held at the home Tuesday at 2:30 p. m. with Rev. Joseph O'Morrow of Norwood officiating. Burial will be in Bellville cemetery.

RITES TUESDAY

Funeral Planned for William Tighe, Former Plymouth Resident.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 9 a. m. at St. Peter's Catholic church for William Tighe, 65, former Plymouth resident, who died Saturday night at the Richland county home.

Services will be conducted by Msgr. R. C. Goebel, and burial will be made in Mansfield Catholic cemetery. The body was removed to the Geiger funeral home.

BODY FOUND IN LAKE

BARBERTON — (U.P.) — Police sought to learn the identity of a woman whose body was found in Lake Ann today by Robert Sauers while on his way to work.

'RECOGNITION DAY' TO HONOR 90 PER CENT BOND COMPANIES

The Richland county defense bond committee, headed by Paul M. Eliot, today announced plans for a county-wide "recognition day" to honor all firms with 90 per cent or better participation by employes in the voluntary payroll deduction plan for purchase of bonds.

Preparatory to drafting the list of firms to be honored, Eliot last week mailed out questionnaire cards to 375 firms in the county with two or more employes. Of the first 50 cards returned, many reported 100 per cent participation, and all were above 90 per cent.

On "recognition day," the date of which will be decided later, certificates and flags will be issued to all firms reaching the 90 per cent figure.

Eliot also announced plans for a regional meeting in Mansfield, to be attended by 200 bond committeemen from nine counties — Richland, Morrow, Erie, Knox, Marion, Crawford, Wyandot, Huron and Ashland.

The meeting, one of a series of 16 regional sessions planned in Ohio, is for the purpose of planning future activities in the bond campaign. Speakers will be Roy D. Moore and Harold H. Bredlow, director and executive secretary of the bond sale organization in Ohio.

Eliot reported that the women's sub-committee headed by Mrs. Helen K. Ott has reached 125 women's clubs with speakers outlining the bond sale. The service and professional group headed by Henry G. Brunner also has reached many service and civic clubs.

Richland county's sale of Series "E" bonds—those of $5,000 and less which individuals may purchase, totalled $192,798 in December and $313,080 in January, Eliot reported. This compares very favorably, he said, with other counties of like population, and with the county's share of the national goal.

George B. Ganyard, county agriculture agent, chairman of the agriculture committee on bond sales, announced his group would utilize a set-up already established for a farm machinery inventory to conduct the bond campaign in rural areas. His group will reach all schools of the county, and organizations such as the Farm Bureau, Grange, 4-H clubs, and similar groups.

Other members of Ganyard's committee are W. B. Davis, Arthur A. Mellick, Ed Lubbe, L. L. Rinehart, W. L. Stough, Clarence Mowry, Charles W. McBride, Vance Clever, G. L. Taylor, Max Drake, and H. L. Hulit.

The Mansfield postoffice and four Mansfield banks reported last night that sales of bonds in the city last week totalled $57,000. Defense stamp sales for the same period totalled $2,400.

WIDOW, 79, DIES

Mrs. Amanda Baker Succumbs After Short Illness.

Mrs. Amanda Elizabeth Baker, 79, widow of Ira A. Baker, died Sunday at her home in Mifflin township after a brief illness. She was born near Mansfield June 3, 1863, and spent her entire life in this community.

The body was removed to the Wappner funeral home. Services will be conducted at 3 p. m. Tuesday. Rev. Grover E. Swoyer, pastor of the First Lutheran church, will officiate. Burial will be in the Caesarea cemetery south of Mansfield.

Surviving are two sons, Charles W. Baker and Allen B. Baker, both at home; a daughter, Mrs. Eugene McMillen of Monroe township; two sisters, Mrs. Martha Burger of Mansfield and Mrs. Bertha Pallin of Portland, Ore; one brother, Joseph Richey of Indiana and five grandchildren.

Too Busy With Defense Work To Receive Beta Key

CINCINNATI —(AP)— Stanley Sevilla will be testing engines in the Wright Aeronautical corporation's suburban Lockland plant tomorrow instead of going to the University of Cincinnati to receive a coveted Phi Beta Kappa key symbolizing peak scholastic attainment.

"We're pretty busy out there at the Wright plant," was all that the Cincinnati youth would say; but Prof. Clyde Park, PBK chapter president, said the patriotic sacrifice on Sevilla's part warranted and would result in a special one-man initiation later.

Sevilla, recently inducted into the air corps, expects to leave for service in about a month. This gives him a personal interest in plane-building at which he works nights while carrying a full university program.

DATES To Remember

April 1-15—Payment of west side water and sewer service bills.

April 1—Final day for displaying 1941 automobile licenses.

April 1—Deadline for filing personal tax returns.

April 27—Registration for war service of all men from 45 to 65.

April 27—All sugar sales halt at midnight.

May 4, 5, 6 and 7—Registration for sugar rationing books.

Sport Podge

by REX HESS

That guy, Dick Behr, up at Fremont, has been jibin' me—I think.

Last Thursday he cracked in sports column that I had been bemoaning the fact that the Braves were dead and asked: "Is it the Braves who are dead, Rex, or the Mansfield sports fans? Surely a town the size of Mansfield should be able to support a Class D team."

That was just one day before he discovered that not only Mansfield but the entire Ohio State league couldn't support D class ball, and that the circuit's dissolution had been ordered.

So I forgive him that crack, poor soul.

And then on Friday, (gosh, the publicity I get in that Fremont paper) he had a squib to the effect that Tyger Paul Dietzel formerly lived in Green Springs, and that he's a brother of Mrs Robert Penn, and winds up with "Incidentally, Dietzel and Bob Winbigler, who broke Mansfield's scoring record with 343 points (tournaments included) together with Coach Vern Hoffman, will spend the Easter vacation at the University of Tennessee Could it be that wind will blow more Ohio athletes south? (Aside to Rex Hess You're entirely welcome to this bit of news We received it via the grapevine, too)

Thank you, Richard, for your well-meant tip, given gloatingly, I suspect, as though it were scoopie material. But you'll have to get up two months earlier in the morning to scoop the old Podger on that item. The fact that Winbigler and Dietzel would visit Tennessee in the springtime was duly recorded in this column 'way last January right while the two of them were being the invited guests of Ohio State's athletic department.

* * *

And if the Behr can bear up to bare facts in the case, I'll just set him straight on his belated scoop

It will be Football Coach Paul Snyder, not Vern Hoffman, taking the Tennessee trip next week with Windy and Paul, and they'll not spend the entire vacation at Tennessee.

They'll look the place over and then take another invitational trip to Duke.

And Mr Behr may also be interested in knowing that while he was watching what he now probably considers the late lamented Tyger-Fremont game at the Sandusky tournament the Tennessee basketball coach was also on hand giving the Mansfielders the eye

The Tennessee tutor made the Sandusky trip primarily to watch Winbigler, but after the game he was in the Tyger dressing room singing the praises of Dietzel

* * *

Both Duke and Tennessee want the Tygers for their football ability, and then for basketball And don't be surprised if they go to Duke. Bob Winbigler, one of the best American Legion junior hurlers in the state last summer, rather likes the idea of learning to play baseball under Coach Jack Combs, the old Philadelphia Athletic.

Pastor Heads for Big Bout

Wanted For Louis While He's Still Hot.

By LAWTON CARVER

NEW YORK —(INS)— There are grounds for the belief that Joe Louis will box Bob Pastor next summer before he encounters Billy Conn, that the New York Boxing commission will throw Jimmy Johnston out of the office tomorrow if he shows up with his beef against the refereeing in the Louis-Abe Simon fight, and that if Louis fights for a service fund again they will arrange so that he can train properly.

* * *

Along Jacobs' beach the word is out that Pastor has the inside track because they want to get him while he still is hot —before somebody cools him off, as somebody must sooner or later.

This one, too, like Louis' heavyweight defenses against Buddy Baer and Abe Simon may be for a service fund, with Conn saved for a later date and for a Louis payday, which certainly nobody will begrudge him

While the champion is knocking out his $21 a month as a private his taxes on real estate outside Detroit and at Chicago go right on, and it seems likely that he will be given a chance to fight for himself at least once this year

As for Johnston's expected appearance before the boxing commission, all that need to be said about that, if he goes through with it, is that he will only be making himself look sillier than he did around the ringside Friday night when he began to bellow that they gave his fighter, Simon a fast count

Johnston and Simon both are extremely lucky in the first place to get that match and the money involved. In the second place, it's about time Johnston quit hollering.

Furthermore, with Pastor another of his fighters about to get a third crack at Louis, he seems to be doing all right in his pursuit of pay-days for himself and his fighters Simon actually didn't deserve another chance at Louis any more than Pastor does now

As for that alleged fast count it seemed apparent that Simon was well on his way up at 10 with his hands off the floor and with his huge torso more erect than reclining but nobody in his right mind could conceive of Simon making any kind of a fight from that point on He was a bloody very groggy, thoroughly inept as usual, and virtually helpless

He had shown nothing up to then to recommend him for the rest of the fight and he undoubtedly was saved from a jolting possibly injurious, clean knockout

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

NEW YORK—(WW)—Vote on Chip Robert's proposal to abolish football at Georgia and Georgia Tech comes up Wednesday and we hear hints that Gov. Talmadge may string along with the old Tech quarterback . . We also have word that a lot more folks than you'd expect supported the idea of abolishing the game in Mississippi's state colleges . . . Now a guy in Alabama proposes halting interscholastic sports for the duration although the colleges haven't been blasted so far . . . Sometimes we wonder what's this anti-football agitation—the war or a feeling that it's a good time to do something about the liberal interpretations of the amateur rules that have been in effect at some spots? . . . Could be. The south went hog wild about collecting football players for a while and plenty of folks would like to stop it if they could find a way.

High Keglers Stage Tourney

National Telegraphic Meet Set Saturday.

COLUMBUS —(INS)— An outgrowth of the American Bowling Congress the high school bowling lads and lassies of the nation will keep the wires humming to Chicago next Saturday when the American High School Bowling congress conducts its annual telegraphic bowling tournament.

Milton Raymer, secretary of the High School Bowling congress, disclosed here today that 250 teams from 14 states are entered in the tournament

These teams he said represent the survivors of more than half a million boys and girls affiliated with the American High School Bowling congress who competed in local sanctioned leagues to gain the finals Each team will be rated on a handicap basis determined by their league averages over the 20 to 24 week schedule that they bowl in a year.

The winning team will be awarded a trip to Columbus with all expenses paid to participate in the American Bowling Congress tournament where the youths will roll May 2

And the championship girls team will receive a similar trip to bowl in the Women's International Bowling congress in Milwaukee May 20

Champs Get Big Welcome

Xenia Turns Out For Schoolboy Cage Kings.

XENIA —(AP)— Kings of this Greene county seat of more than 10,000 population today were Xenia Central high school's state basketball champions.

Approximately 1,000 townspeople turned out yesterday to welcome the players who copped the 1942 Class A title with a record 51-33 victory over Toledo Central Catholic in the finals at Kent.

Fire trucks met the returning three-car caravan and escorted the 10-member squad and Coach Tom Blackburn to city hall where Mayor Frank M. Chamblinn and civic leaders presented them with verbal keys to the town. A public banquet in their honor will be held Friday in the school field house.

* * *

Asked to tell how the championship was won, Blackburn gave his Buccaneers the credit.

"All I had to do was let 'em have the floor and keep out of the way," said Blackburn, who brought Xenia its first state cage title in his seventh year as mentor.

The game Saturday night wasn't that easy, however The Buccaneers were tied 11-all at the end of the first period and held only a three-point halftime advantage. Their fast breaking attack extended their lead to 37-26 at the end of the third period The Toledoans in the last period fought gamely but couldn't stop Xenia's Capt. Bob Winters and his running mate at forward, Roger Thomas, who got 14 points apiece, and Center Jack Wilson, who had 15 for top scoring honors.

Beaten only by Middletown in 26 games this season, Xenia's 51 points in the championship tilt topped the previous record of 47 scored by Akron South in winning 1935 and 1939 titles.

Xenia's victory gave the southwester district its eighth championship since the Ohio High School Athletic association took over the tourney in 1923. The northeastern area has won four times, the eastern district five, the central and southeastern regions one each and the northwestern none

In addition to the regular tourney trophy, the Xenia team brought home the John Miner award which Ohio State university posted for the first time this year in honor of its former basketball star It will be rotated among future scholastic champions

Hockett Gives Edwards Race

Puts In Bid For Job In Cleveland Garden.

JACKSONVILLE —(UP)— Oris Hocket, an ageing rookie who hit .359 for Nashville last season, propelled himself into the battle for an outfield post with the Cleveland Indians today

A few days ago Hocket, 28, was just another outfield candidate but his recent work afield and at bat and the slump of Hank Edwards from Norwalk, O., has pushed Hocket into the regular picture.

He got another hit and scored one run yesterday as the Indians lost to the New York Giants, 3 to 2, in 10 innings.

Jim Bagby was the individual Cleveland star yesterday, holding the Giants without a hit during his six-inning mound turn. He appears to be stronger physically than last year

Vern Kennedy was the losing hurler as the Giants cracked him for three blows and two runs in the seventh round and a single and a triple, the last by Bill Werber, in the 10th

Chubby Dean and Harry Eisenstat, two question-mark Indian moundsmen, pitch for the Tribe against the Giants today.

Sammy Byrd Wins Greensboro Open

GREENSBORO, N. C. —(UP)— The story behind Sammy Byrd's switch from a baseball outfielder with the New York Yankees to a professional golfer among the big-time linksmen must be an interesting one but he won't talk—yet.

Byrd won the greater Greensboro open tournament yesterday with a five-under-par total of 279 for his four rounds He shot 69-67-75-68, a consistently good performance, but he was too modest to talk about it today.

* * *

"That might only be a flash in the pan," Byrd said, "wait until I start winning a few in a row and keep on knocking down par for keeps—then I may have something to tell you. But not now—not now."

Hogan and Lloyd Mangrum divided second and third money with 281's Clayton Heafner and Byron Nelson split fourth and fifth money with 282's.

BARRETT STARS, BUT BUCS LOSE TO CUBS

PASADENA, Cal. — (UP) — Rookie Outfielder Johnny Barrett was the toast of the Pittsburgh Pirates today as the team arrived here to play the Chicago White Sox. Barrett virtually clinched a regular berth by his hitting and fielding performance as the Pirates lost to the Chicago Cubs yesterday at Los Angeles, 10-4. He garnered three hits. Babe Phelps, former Brooklyn catcher, slugged two homers for the Pirates, who had a five-game winning streak broken

Keglers Look For Hot Alleys

Budweiser Lanes Stay In Demand at ABC.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— What are the "hot" alleys in the American Bowling Congress tournament?

Every arriving contestant wants to know. Every time a new name joins the leaders, the faithful grab their schedules to find out on what pair of lanes the score was bowled

Probably every tournament bowler is aware that the Chicago Budweisers, leaders in the five-man team event, rolled their 3131 on alleys 23 and 24. And every team scheduled on those runways believes it has an advantage.

* * *

The alleys were assigned before the tournament opened.

The 1358 of Walter Rosnick and Harry Hedtke of Los Angeles, leaders in the doubles, were scored on 23 and 24. So was the 727 of Junie McMahon of Lodi, N. J., second place man in the singles.

Alleys 31 and 32 recorded the 731 of Bob Tritschler of Norwood, O, singles leader.

Yesterday saw retirement of the 1941 five-man team champions Vogel Brothers of Forest Park, Ill. They rolled 2839—226 pins less than last year—and failed to place among the ten leaders

Edward Copenhagen of Rochester, N. Y., gave the spectators a thrill when he registered 10 consecutive strikes. Then, as the fans watched tensely, Copenhagen's 11th ball left the 1-2-8 pins standing. He picked off the eight to finish with 285.

* * *

Nevertheless the 1331 of Copenhagen and his partner, Frank Falzone, gave them fifth place in the doubles. Arthur Cummings and William Kites of Minneapolis took sixth with 1292.

Cotton States Also Quits For Season

DURHAM, N. C —(INS)— With two more minor baseball leagues counted among the war casualties the number that will take the field this spring was reduced today to 31

Browns, Pirates Set Pace

Also Hold First Place In Inter-Loop Games.

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

NEW YORK—(AP)—Major league baseball teams are getting plenty of exercise in the sun-bathed citrus circuit, but they may have to wait until the July all-star game to determine anything in the way of superiority between the American and National loops

Sixty-eight exhibition games have sent teams from one league against those from the other in the first month of grapefruit competition, and today they are neck and neck, with each league owning 34 decisions.

First place in the grapefruit standings is shared by the Pittsburgh Pirates and the St. Louis Browns. The Pirates have won 12 of their 16 starts and the Brownies nine out of 12 for a percentage of .750 each.

* * *

Both teams, incidentally, also top their respective circuits in inter-league competition The Browns have won all five of their games against National league teams. The Bucks have taken five out of six from American league clubs.

Washington's Senators are pushing the pace-setters with 14 victories in 19 games—all against major league opposition

Fourth place belongs to the St. Louis Cardinals. They swept a two-game series with the Yanks during the week-end, running their spring record to 15 wins and seven losses. In 18 games against American league teams the Cards have taken 12, half of them from New York.

The Philadelphia Phils are in fifth place in the standings with seven victories and five defeats.

For those who insist on comparing the strength of the two leagues, the record of the Boston Red Sox might help.

The Red Sox won half of their ten games against National league teams but have played seven with their own American league clubs and lost every one

Reds' Hopes For Pennant Boosted

SANFORD, Fla —(UP)— Signs of a break in the batting slump of First Baseman Frank McCormick plus a display of gilt-edge pitching by Bucky Walters and Paul Derringer buoyed pennant hopes of the Cincinnati Reds today.

McCormick poled out two singles and met the ball on the nose on two other attempts as Walters and Derringer shut out the Boston Braves, 5 to 0, yesterday

The Reds try to run their grapefruit circuit winning streak to five straight today against the Braves.

The Rhinelanders now have won an even half of their 16 spring engagements and appear to be shaking the slump which aroused grave fears a week ago Both the Reds and the Braves got only six hits yesterday but two of the Redleg blows were a two-run double by Rollie Hemsley and a triple by Bert Haas.

Elmer Riddle and Whitey Moore are slated to share the Cincinnati hill duties today.

2—Card of Thanks

WITH REGARD TO A CARD OF THANKS

Very often a Card of Thanks in The News-Journal meets a need which can hardly be solved in any other way. Not only is it a gracious expression of gratitude to those who have sent floral tributes, but also courteously acknowledges the service and kindness of the many to whom a personal note of thanks cannot well be mailed, or whose names or addresses are not known.

A "Card of Thanks" can now be arranged by telephone: Dial 4251-6, ask for Miss Lane or Miss Stone, either will be glad to render whatever service and advice you need.

WRONG LICENSE

CLEVELAND —(U P)— Arraigned before Police Judge Perry A Frey on a reckless driving charge, Edward Thyret, jr , produced what he thought was his driver's license. It was a marriage license

The judge gave him a wedding present of a suspended sentence and the advice

"Better calm down and don't show the clergyman your driver's license when you're married."

BUYERS MOVE ON HOPES OF EARLY PROFIT

Take Favorites In Belief Market Has Reached Liquidation Point.

NEW YORK — Faint recovery signs appeared in today's stock market although these were highly selective.

Early resistance was displayed by U. S. Steel, Chrysler, Sears Roebuck, Eastman Kodak, General Electric, Douglas Aircraft Anaconda, American Can, Standard Oil (N.J.) International Nickel, Zenith Radio, American Telephone and Chasepeake & Ohio.

Negligible declines were posted for Santa Fe, North American and Johns-Manville.

Buyers stepped in here and there for share favorites, brokers said. On the idea the market had been pretty well liquidated and was in shape to come back briskly when and if the news warranted. As in the past week or so, scant speculative or investment fuel was found in the war bulletins or Washington activities anent taxes.

Some market comfort was derived from the survey of the magazine "Steel" saying "decided relief in the scrap situation had resulted from opening of spring weather and increased flow of material from intensive drives on farms, industrial plants and automobile wrecking yards

"Disposal of steel stocks by automobile manufacturers is relieving pressure on mills to some extent, numerous consumers obtaining needed supplies from this source much earlier than from steel mills Most of this material consists of sheets and bars. It is sold only to consumers with priority ratings, under strict W. P. B. control"

NEW ADDITION

First of 10,000-Ton Freighters Slips Down Ways In Texas.

HOUSTON, Tex. —(INS)— Workmen of the new Irish Bend shipyards near Houston were rushing to completion today the first of 60 ships a 10,000-ton freighter, which are to be constructed here as a part of the nation's wartime shipping program

The new ship slipped down the ways on schedule yesterday before a crowd of 12,000 shipyard workers and invited guests. The sponsor was Mrs. Margaret H John, eldest granddaughter of Sam Houston Texas' Revolutionary hero.

NAVAL PILOT MODEST HERO

O'Hare Has Trouble Telling About Bagging Six Jap Planes.

O'Hare took to the air with but one teammate and when the latter discovered his guns were not working right, O'Hare was left to meet the oncoming enemy planes.

"They were about 12 miles from the carrier and coming straight for it, so there wasn't much to do but get in there and shoot it out with them," O'Hare explained quietly. He avoided using the word "I."

"In our first pass at them two were hit and dropped out. One of them had a badly smoking engine and we had no time to see what was happening to the other.

"Then we would just shoot at one and he would fall away and then we would make a pass at the next one."

Commander Thach interposed here that "they were falling like flies. There were three falling at one time."

O'Hare grinned.

"The first two to fall were at the rear of the formation so we just started up the line for the rest of them. When they would get knocked out the others would close into formation. Four of them got right over the carrier and we made a pass at these The leader and his wing man were hit then. And by that time Commander Thach and others were up there giving us support."

And that is about all O'Hare would say.

He knocked down five bombers before the wave reached a position above the carrier and then damaged two others so badly that he was given credit for at least one of them None of the wave of enemy planes got away and the carrier was not hit.

"What did you and the other pilots do when you returned to the ship?" O'Hare was asked.

"Well, I wanted a glass of water," he replied with a smile.

LOGISTICS

Strategy is the planning of warfare.

Tactics is the execution of those plans.

Logistics, the third branch of military science, is the supplying of everything necessary to strategy and tactics—in the right amount, at the right place, at the right time.

Now, in total war, we must apply the science of Logistics to all of our activities as a nation—civilian as well as military. WE-ALL are part of the Victory Program.

Our supply lines are literally life lines of the United Nations. Man-power and munition-power are the controlling factors.

Today, Logistics dictates strategy—determines tactics.

Congress has appropriated billions of dollars but it cannot appropriate one single second of time.

Time favors those who appreciate it as the priceless commodity it now is.

In war, when we save time we save lives—and we make our individual contribution to Victory.
